U.S. B52s Pound Infiltration Routes in Demilitarized Zone

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Waves of U.S. B52 bombers hammered North Vietnamese infiltration routes and bivouac areas in the embattled demilitarized zone today.

In their 14th raid since the giant bombers began hitting inside the buffer zone, the eight-engine planes unloaded tons of explosives on the zone's western sector.

Straddled Line
The U.S. Military Command said the bombers straddled the demarcation line which runs east-west across the center of the six-mile-wide zone between North and South Viet Nam.

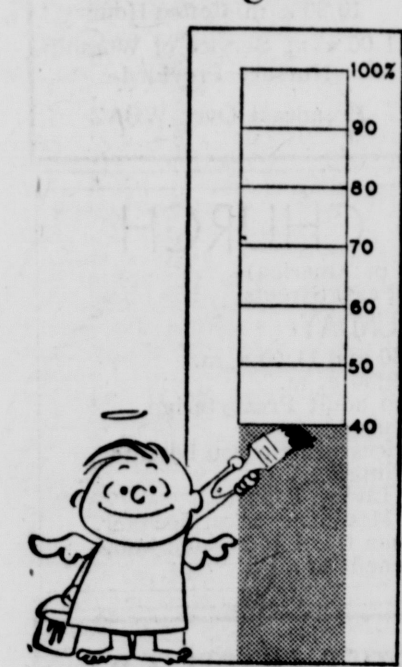

Just south of the zone, U.S. Marines pushing through mountainous jungle terrain encountered only light contact as they continued Operation Prairie in an effort to halt the southward infiltration of the North Vietnamese 324B Division.

The Marines reported their enemy death toll nearing the 1,000 mark. They took only four prisoners since they began the operation Aug. 3.

The Marines claimed 992 North Vietnamese killed. The Leathernecks themselves took listing their own casualties as considerable losses, officially listing their own casualties as moderate, meaning they were hard hit.

Chest Figures

Community Chest Campaign Chairman Charles E. Raible and George W. Tanke announced today that $127,340 has been received to date toward the Chest goal of $299,600. This leaves a balance of $172,260 to be raised. Chest workers expressed optimism, since last year at the same time, less than $50,000 had been raised.

The Community Chest Campaign for 1967 has its official kick-off tonight at 8 o'clock in Dietz stadium. Over 50 awards will be offered in addition to music by Troop 12 Indians Drum Corps, the Barber Shop singing association and local musicians under full orchestration. The highlight of the evening is expected to be a huge fireworks display.

Even though the campaign is well ahead of last year's pace it is still important that everyone give their "fair share," officials said. The fair share has been interpreted by the Community Chest as $1 for each one of the 13 agencies supported by the Chest for those persons on an hourly wage rate and 1/2 of 1 per cent of a day's wages for those on a salary scale.

It is hoped that 80 per cent of the campaign will be completed by Oct. 15, making it unnecessary to extend the campaign. However, all campaign workers must complete their calls and report results.

End Manhunt, Fugitive Caught By Trooper in Ellenville Area

Roy Edison Davis, 25, object of one of the largest mounted and far-ranging searches for a criminal fugitive ever conducted locally, was taken into custody by State Trooper James Jackson, of Cooperstown barracks, shortly before 11 a. m. this morning near Ellenville. Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman, of Kingston, confirmed to The Freeman only minutes before press deadline today that Davis, hunted for two nights and a day and a half as an accomplice in the shooting of an Ellenville state trooper, had made his way through dense woods at Ellenville and attempted to break into an as yet unidentified farmhouse there.

When occupants of the house refused to admit him, he tried to force his way in. Within minutes, Trooper Jackson, who had come from far-off Cooperstown to join the search, had captured Davis and he was on his way to Ellenville State Police barracks for questioning and arraignment.

All Areas Covered
The roads, bridges and wooded areas of Southern Ulster County had resounded to the sounds of wailing sirens, barking dogs and tramping feet through the underbrush for many hours before the capture as a shotgun-toting posse of more than 100 state troopers, deputy sheriffs and local authorities headed into the second day of a massive manhunt for Davis, wanted as an accomplice in the shooting of an Ellenville state trooper.

Senate Okays 3 Ulster Projects for $1,355,000

The Senate not only did not delete anything from a public works appropriations bill totaling $4,139,244,000, but included $28.3 million more than a similar House measure—thus assuring the Ulster County communities of Rosendale and Ellenville of sharing $1,355,000 for flood control work in these two areas.

The House approved the measure last month and, at that time, local officials in Rosendale and Ellenville learned that $1,115,000 had been earmarked for Rosendale; $150,000 for North Ellenville and $90,000 for South Ellenville. Flooding in these locations has caused considerable concern and major damage over the years, and the federal monies should completely alleviate the problems.

According to the Associated Press, the Senate passed the measure with a 61-4 vote Friday and sent it to a conference table where differences between its bill and the House bill will be ironed out. Also included in the bill and of local interest, in addition to the monies granted to Ulster County, was $114,000 for surveys along Wappinger Creek in Dutchess County.

AEO Included
The measure carries funds for hundreds of irrigation, flood-control, navigation and power projects as well as Atomic Energy Commission proposals.

Final approval came after the Senate blocked a move by Republican Leader Everett Dirksen to authorize the President to impound up to 20 per cent of all funds appropriated for domestic programs.

By a 50-17 vote, the Senate held the amendment was not germane to the Public Works Appropriations Bill.

Dirksen had maintained that his proposal, which he said had the approval of Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler, would have deferred $3 million in federal spending this year.

The Senate version of the appropriations measure is $27.8 million under what President Johnson budgeted and $186.2 million under appropriations for similar purposes last year. Of the $4,139,244,000, a total of $2,200,000 is for the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Senate refused to delete from the bill $500,000 for planning a $1-billion canal between (Continued on Page 5, Col. 4)

Inez Is Heading For Mexico Coast, Hesitates in Gulf

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hurricane Inez blew into the Gulf of Mexico today on a course aimed at Mexico's populous east coast after lashing the northern tip of the Yucatan Peninsula.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at New Orleans said, "Precautions against hurricane force winds, high tides and torrential rains should be started immediately along the Mexico coast in the general area of Tuxpan to 100 miles north of Tampico."

It said the storm was located in the southwest Gulf of Mexico about 340 miles southeast of Tampico and moving west at about 12 miles an hour.

Expect No Damage
Mexican meteorologists said if the present course is held, no land areas will be seriously threatened for about 24 hours.

The storm, which has switched course several times, pounded villages along the Yucatan northern coast for nearly 24 hours with winds of 125 miles per hour and heavy rains.

Damage to the port of Progreso, 22 miles from the Yucatan state capital of Merida, and to other smaller towns was believed heavy, but there were no immediate reports of serious injuries.

Most of Progreso's 15,000 residents were evacuated before the full fury of the storm hit Friday and the city was nearly deserted.

Concentrate on Woods
Authorities theorized Davis was "holed up somewhere in the woods" but were taking no chances along the main highways and byways. All roads in the area were blocked and troopers from the search, had captured Davis and he was on his way to Ellenville State Police barracks for questioning and arraignment.

When occupants of the house refused to admit him, he tried to force his way in. Within minutes, Trooper Jackson, who had come from far-off Cooperstown to join the search, had captured Davis and he was on his way to Ellenville State Police barracks for questioning and arraignment.

Colonial Acquires Rapid Mix Facility of Miron at By-pass

Colonial Sand and Stone Co. Inc., recently acquired the Miron Rapid Mix Concrete Corp., and will continue to operate under the latter name at the site on East Chester Street by-pass, it was learned today.

Colonial Sand and Stone Co. is recognized as the largest concrete business in the east and one of the largest in the United States.

Colonial was formed in 1911. In 1964 Texas Industries, Inc. of Arlington, Tex., and Colonial Sand and Stone Company of New York merged and at that time industry men speculated the merger could have far-reaching significance as a trade-setter.

In February Colonial took over the plant on Route 28 which opened for operations in March and continued until August 2 when that plant was closed temporarily and the business moved to the new location on East Chester Street by-pass.

It is not definitely known at this time what will be done with the Route 28 facility, according to a company spokesman.

Udall Releases Report On U.S. Study of River

Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall announced release of a far-reaching federal study of the 315-mile Hudson River.

The report, "Focus on the Hudson," was prepared by the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation and recommends three major actions:

1) Creation of a three-member Federal Interstate Compact Commission representing the federal government and the states of New York and New Jersey. The commission's role would be to restore the natural beauty of the river and guide future growth and development of the entire Hudson River Basin.

2) Creation of an Advisory Committee to the commission. The committee would be representative of a wide variety of interests in the Hudson Valley.

Ulster Town Board Hears Data on Signs, Sewer Plant

Last August the town board of the Town of Ulster recommended a change in the sign at the Route 28 traffic circle leading to the Uptown Kingston area. At that time it was suggested the present "Washington Avenue" sign be changed to read "Uptown Kingston Arterial."

That suggestion was adopted by a vote of 4 to 1 with Justice of the Peace Robert Stedje voting in opposition. The request was sent to State Department of Public Works.

At the October meeting of the Ulster Town Board Thursday evening, a communication was received from J. Burch McMoran, superintendent of Public Works, stating that after a study the department had decided to change the present sign to read "Washington Avenue - Uptown Kingston."

The communication stated that the "Uptown Kingston Arterial" had been rejected since two additional arterial routes were planned to the north of the city line and the department did not consider the word "Arterial" appropriate for the Route 28 interchange in view of future arterial routes being constructed.

The board reviewed application forms under the junkyard ordinance and after consideration, authorized the town clerk to draw up the application form

Crusade Raised $38,450 Setting All-Time Record

A total of $38,450.18 was raised in the Ulster County 1966 Cancer Crusade, to set a new all-time record, it was reported here today by Harry C. Kaprelian, Crusade chairman for the American Cancer Society's Ulster County Unit.

The Crusade went over its goal by 134.9 per cent, the highest per cent of goal among counties of like population in the state. Total income of the New York State Division, American Cancer Society for 1966 including $497,017 in legacies, reached $2,029,503.27 for another new all-time high record.

Kaprelian, president of the Charles Ramsey Corporation of Kingston, recently returned from the State Division's annual meeting in Syracuse, said, "I want to express my heartfelt thanks to the residents of Ulster County who helped to make possible this victory. The fact that we did so well is indeed a tribute to the numerous volunteers throughout the county who gave unselfishly of their time and effort, not only to raise funds, but to distribute the life-saving message of the American Cancer Society, as well as to all those who support the never-ending work of the Society through their contributions."

The funds will be used for cancer research, education, and service to cancer patients.

Register Tonight

Registration for the November 8 general election will continue tonight until 10 o'clock in the wards of the City of Kingston and in the county districts.

This is a very important election with national, state and county offices to be filled and delegates to the Constitutional Convention to be chosen. Eleven amendments to the Constitution and one proposition also will be decided by the voters.

Don't put off this civic responsibility until the final days of next week as something may happen to prevent you from registering at that time. It seems hardly necessary to remind eligible voters that unless they are registered they cannot vote in this general election.

Registering in a simple process, requiring but a few minutes. Go to your polling place by 10 o'clock tonight and register so that you can vote on Election Day.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODIE ISHMAEL

Sam Harsh has become one of the best informed men anywhere on theology and Christian denominations, although he is of Jewish parentage.

Eighteen years ago, while selling a film on the life of Stephen Foster to libraries, schools and civic organizations, he learned that there were very few religious films available to churches. He saw a need to be filled.

In Hollywood he organized a company and produced three films. They sold well and since that time he has produced about 1,000 such films for the church and religious market. His production has been for most denominations and for general church and Sunday School use. For the past 15 years he has produced the successful TV religious dramatic series, "This is the Life" for the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod.

Thanks to the insight, understanding and faith of a Jewish born businessman, many denominations have added a new dimension to their ministry.

Catholic Appeal For Clothing to Start Nov. 6th

Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, has designated the week of Nov. 6 to 13 for the annual Thanksgiving Clothing Collection for destitute people of other countries and appointed the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Henry A. Cauley to direct the appeal in which the 403 parishes of the New York Archdiocese will participate. The collection is sponsored by the Catholic Bishops of the United States.

Last year a record total of 19½ million pounds of used clothing, footwear and blankets was donated nationally with the New York Archdiocese accounting for more than one million pounds. The clothing was distributed by Catholic Relief Services to needy persons in 60 countries without regard to race, religion or color. Methodists Use Revised Hymnals; Dedication Set

On Sunday, Oct. 16, at the 11 a. m. worship service the Trinity Methodist Church will dedicate and use for the first time The Methodist Hymnal, 1964, announced Mrs. Martin Kelly, chairman of the music committee and the Rev. Richard R. Guice, pastor.

In 1960, the General Conference of the Methodist Church authorized the commission on worship to appoint a committee to prepare a revised edition of the hymnal. The Hymnal Committee was appointed and in cooperation with laymen, pastors, musicians, hymnologists, bishops, and staff members of various boards and agencies of the church a revised edition of the hymnal was presented to the General Conference of the Methodist Church meeting in 1964 in Pittsburgh. The General Conference adopted the proposed hymnal.

The complicated process of publishing a hymnal began in July 12 this year the Methodist Publishing House in Nashville, Tenn., observed a consecration service for the new hymnal and shipments of the hymnal began in the sequence of orders received. The pre-publication orders were for more than 2,150,000 copies.

The Methodist Hymnal, 1964, will be consecrated at the Special General Conference Nov. 7-11, in Chicago, when Methodist and Evangelical United Brethren Church union will be considered.

Survey Findings Show Religion Is Important

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ninety-two per cent of Americans regard religion as important, with 70 per cent of the group considering it "very important" and 22 per cent thinking it "fairly important," a national sampling indicates.

The survey, taken for the Catholic Digest magazine by the Gallup public opinion research organization, also turned up these other findings:

Concern for religion is greatest in medium-sized cities, of 25,000 to 100,000 population, where 81 per cent of the people consider it "very important."

In large metropolitan cities, of more than a million population, only 65 per cent rate religion "very important." The figure ranges upward as the city size declines.

About 78 per cent of those over 65 canvassed consider religion very important. Only 57 per cent of the 18-24 age group consider religion of prime importance.

More dark-skinned people, 80 per cent, rate religion very important than do whites, 69 per cent. More women, 80 per cent, also do so than men, 63 per cent.

In the poll, a cross-section of American adults was asked: "How important would you say religion is in your own life — very important, fairly important, or not very important?"

The findings indicated the percentage of the general population considering religion "very important," 70 per cent, was down 5 per cent from what it was in 1952.

However, the number consid-

The Grand Street building is to be a vocational teachers' center.

Others are a Broadway building for the John M. Rapp Van Lines Inc., $36,950, and another on Broadway, for AAA Auto Glass at $8,700.

Six permits were issued for new homes at an estimated total cost of $83,680, and 13 were issued for additions at a total of $29,260.

The percentage saying religion was "not very important" was up 2 per cent — to 7 per cent.

Your Life And Mine

BY CLYDE HERBERT SNELL
CHARITY IN OUR JUDGMENTS

Human beings of every age are prone to pass judgments upon others. This seems to be a natural thing to do. And it is so easy to misjudge. Often we tend to be very critical when, if we knew all of the facts we might have an entirely different frame of mind.

Bruce Barton has told about a man who was severely criticized by his neighbors for his apparent laziness. He took life very easy, while his wife worked. They sized him up as shiftless. Ultimately the neighbors learned that this man had been severely gassed and wounded in war; and that his life hung really by a very slender thread. Then, of course, they became more charitable in their judgments.

There is an old saying to the effect that you cannot tell by the looks of a toad how far he can jump. And you cannot tell, either, by the looks of a person what burdens he is bearing or what the condition of his health may be. Some who are the very picture of health, as we say, are not robust at all; and have to be extremely careful what they do. It is not uncommon for us to envy the lot of someone only to discover later that they have trials and burdens the like of which we never would want to have to endure.

An old song contains the couplet: "You can't tell others from need to gladness beguile. If you carry your cross with a smile." Some folks manage to do that. Even though they are afflicted, or have a rugged lot in life, they are determined that they shall not move among their friends and neighbors with a glum and cheerless countenance. They possess a kind of courage which bears crosses uncomplainingly; and that keeps sweet even when life for them is tough and gruelling.

These folks who take trouble in stride, as we say, and are determined never to wear their trials on their coat sleeves, are apt to fool us. We are prone to judge them carefree when, actually, they are far from it.

The Indians have an adage which says that a person never should judge another until he has walked in

FIRE PREVENTION

Every 12 minutes a home somewhere in the United States is destroyed or damaged by a fire starting in rubbish, National Fire Protection Association records indicate.

Rubbish fires totaled 42,700 and were responsible for $18,200,000 in damage. Storage fires topped 111,600 and totaled $225,800,000 in damages.

A great many of these fires could have been prevented.

These are especially sobering facts to ponder at the beginning of Fire Prevention Week.

Ask any fireman what three things are needed to start a fire and he will say fuel, heat and oxygen. These three elements form the combustion triangle. Take any one of them away and the fire goes out.

How can you use the combustion triangle to prevent fires?

First of all you can clean up rubbish and trash at regular intervals. This eliminates one of the three requirements—fuel.

Next, store rubbish and trash in covered fire-proof galvanized containers. When cans are covered oxygen is eliminated.

Finally, store rubbish and trash in areas away from furnaces and other hot areas. This eliminates the last portion of the triangle—heat.

The best way to prevent fire is to keep these three essential ingredients from being present at the same time in the same place.

Fire-fighters want every week in the year to be fire prevention week, but set aside this week for a special effort in safety programs.

During the week, programs will be held throughout the county to acquaint the public with fire hazards and the need for care in preventing them.

Everyone should play safe this week and check on the fire hazards to which he is exposed and do everything he can to remove them.

UNCLE SAM'S LIABLE

If a federal judge's ruling in a recent traffic accident damage case stands, the armed forces may change current practices with regard to travel by men under orders. This apparently far-fetched prediction has a solid basis, as will be seen.

The case in question involved an Air Force man driving his own car to a new assignment in another state. His car struck another, injuring a woman. The judge, sitting at Columbus, Ohio, in a non-jury trial, ordered the federal government to pay more than $247,000 damages. This was done on the grounds that the airman was acting in line of duty, and that the government was thus liable.

It is not unreasonable, then, to think that henceforth the armed forces may insist on providing transportation for men being transferred instead of letting them go on their own. And if Uncle Sam is to be liable, that is not a bad idea.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER

A high school football coach in Minnesota has hit upon a novel way to punish players who fumble the ball.

The fumbler has to carry a football everywhere he goes for a week—to and from school to class, to lunch, even in the shower.

It will be interesting to see if living publicly with his shame will make the offender sure-fingered and fumble-proof.

It is also interesting to speculate on what might happen if the coach were to impose the same penalty on himself and wear a dunce cap for a week whenever he sends in the wrong play.

It would be a practical demonstration of teamwork—and democracy.

IT'S A BIG WAR

The conflict in Viet Nam is a little war, compared with World War II or even the Korean War. Though the United States now has some 300,000 men committed to the theater of combat, with more on the way, and though more than 6,400 Americans have been killed in Viet Nam, our involvement scarcely measures up to the marshaling of forces in earlier wars of the 20th century.

Except that when it comes to bombing this is one of the biggest wars the United

Mailing Morale

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

FORT LEE, N.J. — (NEA) — Every evening Linda Galarodi, age 20, of this city, writes several pages of airmail letters to Pvt. John Riley, age 22, at Ti Anh, Viet Nam.

Each letter costs her eight cents. Frequently she wraps up four or five pound packages—outmeal cookies, small cakes, sourmilk donuts—and sends them to her infantry-enlisted boyfriend.

They cost her "about $5" apiece. If she sends 365 such letters in the coming year and two such packages a month—which she insists she will—she will spend nearly $150 on postage alone to mail morale to Pvt. Riley during his 12-month tour of the war.

"Give," she observes, "it's expensive." With countless Americans now sending thousands of pounds of mail every day to soldiers in Southeast Asia (some 5,000 more tons are expected before Christmas) the total tab for stateiders is millions of dollars.

Because of this cost, many families must keep mail to GI relatives at a minimum. And a few people—say the wife of a Pvt. E-2 earning $97.50 a month—cannot afford any packages whatsoever. Linda Galarodi thinks it's a shame. "So," she says, "some of my friends and I have gotten together a petition in northern New Jersey. It asks that some kind of legislation be passed in Washington to eliminate the postage on mail being sent to servicemen in the war. The signatures and enthusiasm generated have been encouraging."

Signatures? "More than 2,000 of them so far." Enthusiasm? "Even the post office people are signing," she giggles.

The petition argues that no warfront soldier should be kept from maximum homefront mail because of economic reasons. It also implies that, since the United States is now spending $2 billion a month toward increasing the machinery to wage the war, it can also afford some money toward increasing the morale to wage it.

From time to time similar petitions have circulated throughout the country. Unfortunately for the campaigners, none has ever raised dust. So it has been with any conceived legislation on the subject.

Rep. Dominick Daniels (D-N.J.), for example, placed a bill (HR 13071) before the House last February. His aides say, frankly, "It got nowhere fast."

Daniels' proposal, which would eliminate postal charges on first-class letters and parcels (five pounds or less) not exceeding 60 inches in length and girth, "hasn't a chance this session," his office says. "We're not optimistic about next session, either."

The trouble is, according to representatives of the House Post Office Committee, there has been no popular backing for such a law.

"This kind of minor legislation," says one House aide, "must have the support of many large groups. As of now it appears nobody cares one way or the other."

Except Linda Galarodi of course. "I intend to keep harping," she says.

How? "First thing I'll do is write to Lady Bird Johnson. I understand she personally reads most of the small mail she gets, so perhaps this will catch her eye. She seems very understanding. I'm sure she'll do what she can."

Then Linda expects to write for wider congressional help, write for military assistance, write for aid from veterans' groups such as the VFW, and even write friends in other states, urging them to write their friends to write their friends to write.

Obviously, she admits, it'll take a lot of stamp licking.

But then, Pvt. Riley's girl planned a large postal budget this year, anyway.

Congress Cuts Tax Break
On Dental Care for Elderly

By WILLIAM LAWRENCE, D.D.S.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

New income tax law amendments recently passed by Congress have a little-known provision that should be of concern to elderly patients and dentists who are responsible for their dental health. It says that, beginning 1967, persons 65 years of age or older may deduct only those dental and medical expenses which exceed 3 per cent of their adjusted gross income.

Here's what it means to you. Under present Internal Revenue law if you're 65 or over you may deduct all your dental and medical costs for tax purposes. For instance, if your adjusted gross income is $6,000 and your dental costs are $150, you may deduct the entire $150.

However, starting Jan. 1, 1967, when Section 106 of Public Law 89-97 becomes effective, you won't be able to deduct any part of the $150 because that amount is less than 3 per cent of $6,000.

Apparently Congress felt that with Medicare's basic and supplementary health benefits there was no longer need for this tax deduction. But many elderly think it was kind of picky of Congress to have done this to them. It's disappointing enough, they say, that more dental health provisions were not included in Medicare.

For somehow, in spite of the massive resistance to Medicare manifested by many of the medical profession, medical health benefits in the bill are adequate, while provision for restoring and maintaining dental health, except for limited oral surgery, was omitted.

In many cases dental health for the elderly is of vital importance in maintaining good physical and mental health. Many old people can't get proper nourishment because they have no teeth or poor fitting artificial ones and need new ones. Many complain they don't go out any more because they are ashamed of the way they look without teeth.

The new law deprives the elderly of a tax break they vitally need.

Please send your questions about dental health to Dr. Lawrence in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While he cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

States has ever been engaged in. The Pentagon has disclosed that the tonnage of bombs dropped on targets in Viet Nam—and, to no small extent, in neighboring Laos—is being rained down at a much greater rate than in Korea or in the Pacific during the second world war.

Officials put it this way: The bomb loads dropped by American aircraft in the Viet Nam war this year will exceed the tonnage during three years of the Korean War or in the entire Pacific area during World War II. The estimated total this year will be 638,000 tons of high explosives. That is some 135,000 tons more than was used to lambast targets in the Pacific area, including Alaska and the China-Burma-India theater, during the entire span of the big war that ended in 1945.

Everyone has seen these figures by now, doubtless. We reiterate them by way of reminder of an evident fact that is sometimes glossed over or ignored: The United States is caught up in a big war in Viet Nam, and it is getting bigger month by month.

GIA DINH, Viet Nam (NEA)

—Dr. Vu Ban is a 35-year-old physician elected to the assembly set up to write a new constitution for South Viet Nam.

Ban had never run for office before. He knows nothing of politics. We met in the office of an old friend of his father's. He'd come in to seek the older man's advice and aid.

"I ran," said Ban, "because things are getting so bad in Viet Nam. There comes a time when one must do something. You can be either negative or positive. I decided I must be positive."

"Young people must do something. I know we can do only a little bit," he held up a thumb and finger about a quarter of an inch apart. "But it must be done. I don't know yet what we can do."

"Will I run again for office after the constitution is written? I don't know. It depends on whether I can accomplish anything. I am a doctor and I have a private practice. I am busy. I don't want to run again if I can do nothing. I will make my decision in six months when the work of this assembly is over. Many young people feel as I do."

The average age of the assemblymen elected is 40. The men of the young new group are not certain what they want. When you ask what they plan, you get generalities—like "making things better."

These young men, by and large, are brand new to politics, sincere, intelligent, determined and naive. They're confident they're not going to let themselves be pushed aside from what the majority agree on, regardless of any pressure that may be put on them.

(In the infighting of practical politics, however, they may find this more easily said than done.)

By and large, they're nationalistic and independent, against the continuation of military rule, against official corruption and government by small cliques of men out for their own personal gain. They have their heads high in the sky for now. It's hard to say what will happen as time goes on.

They're determined that the older men be replaced by younger men.

They're anti-Communist but determined not to be too independent on the United States.

They know American aid is necessary in the war. But they want South Viet Nam to stand on its own feet.

They see a danger that South Viet Nam's leaders will become subservient to the United States. After the war is over these young men want to have relations with their neighbors on both sides of the fence. But they want democracy at home.

Mao Organizes New Red International

By LEON DENNEN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Washington (NEA)—Mao Tse-tung is reported to be organizing a new Communist International to replace the defunct Comintern and Cominform that were once dominated by Russia.

According to East European diplomats, representatives of pro-Chinese Communist parties in Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America met in Peking in the early part of September to lay the foundation of the new organization.

They gathered in Red China's capital, significantly enough, at the very time that Mao's Red Guards were assaulting and heaping scorn on Russian and other "revisionist" diplomats.

Prominent Maoists who took part in Peking's conclave included Jacques Grippa, leader of the pro-Chinese Communist party of Belgium; Marc Tibert, editor of the French newspaper L'Humanite Nouvelle, and E. F. Hill, chairman of the pro-Peking Communist party of Australia.

Red China was represented at the gathering by Premier Chou En-lai and two secretaries of the Central Committee of Red China's Communist party, Kang Shen and Liu Ning-yi.

Also present, according to some reports, were the secretary general of Japan's Communist party and Mouyabi Andre Georges, president of the National Assembly of the Brazzaville Congo.

In view of specialists on communism, a new Red International dominated by Peking will intensify the bitter conflict between pro-Russian and pro-Chinese Communists that is already raging in many parts of the world. It will also accelerate the final diplomatic break between Moscow and Peking.

Mao is certainly aware that his hand-picked organization will irrevocably split world communism into two hostile camps. What apparently prompted him to take the risky step at this time is Red China's growing isolation and the declining influence of Peking's policy of revolutionary brinkmanship.

Many of Mao's former adherents, especially leftist intellectuals, now regard him as a "paper dragon" who wants to fight American imperialism to the last Vietnamese. They deplore his failure to give greater military aid to the Viet Cong and North Viet Nam.

However, Peking's doctrine of purer than pure Marxism-Leninism-Maoism continues to have vocal adherents in all countries of Europe, Asia, Africa and Latin America, including the Progressive Labor party and other splinter groups in the United States.

There are pro-Chinese dissidents within the Red movements of Israel (Arab faction), Syria, Iraq, Iran and Lebanon.

In some countries—Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Japan and New Zealand—the main-stream of Communist leadership has remained faithful to Mao Tse-tung. Lenin had fewer and less ardent supporters in 1919 when he launched the Third Communist International (Comintern) which completely eclipsed the rival Second International of the Social Democrats. And Mao, it is now clear, considers himself as Lenin's sole and authentic heir.

Mao's Red International—if and when it comes into being—will certainly create new difficulties for Russia's uneasy rulers. According to some East European diplomats, the Russians are even trying to beat Mao to the punch by reviving the Cominform (successor to the Comintern) which virtually ceased to exist when Nikita Khrushchev embarked on his policy of peaceful coexistence.

But can Russia turn back the clock? Will Yugoslavia, Romania and the Communist parties of Italy and France agree to go back into Moscow's harness after having tasted some independence?

LBJ, Rusk Parallel Views Issued by Dulles in 1954

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Republicans are making a mistake in interpreting President Johnson's trip to Manila and other Asian capitals as being motivated solely by political considerations in this country. The forthcoming mission of the President to the Far East is basically an international maneuver, and the Republicans would be on more logical ground if they pointed out the Democratic administration here has belatedly begun to carry out the concepts which President Eisenhower and the late Secretary of State John Foster Dulles proclaimed to the world when the Southeast Asia Treaty was signed in Manila just twelve years ago.

It has taken America a long time to realize that, among the factors which could bring about World War III, there are some lodged in Asia which are more dangerous than have arisen anywhere else in the world. In September 1954, Secretary Dulles, in historic speeches delivered at the opening of the Manila conference and in the United States shortly after the treaty was signed, emphasized the importance to Asia of "unity for security and peace, including economic planning and military co-operation. In ratifying the new treaty, commitments for defense against aggression by armed attack were made at that time by several of the same countries whose representatives are again assembling in Manila on October 24 to meet with President Johnson.

Mr. Dulles declared that the "treaty recognizes also the danger of subversion and indirect aggression," and "deals with this difficult problem more explicitly than any other security treaty that has been made."

He pointed out that this country also had agreed to "cooperate in the development of economic measures which will promote economic and social well-being" in the treaty area as well as in certain states not actually parties. He said that "the protocol also extends the treaty benefits to Cambodia and Laos and the free territory of Viet Nam" and that the treaty will, "to the extent that is practicable, throw a mantle of protection over these young nations."

The speeches made by Mr. Dulles at Manila and subsequently on his return home show a remarkable parallel with what is being said today by President Johnson and Secretary Rusk about the purposes of the United States in cementing the relationships of the free countries of Asia.

In recent months substantial progress has been made among the free countries of Asia toward recognition of the fact that, with American participation, much can be accomplished to bolster the Asian Alliance of Free Nations and build it up by strengthening the economic position of each.

Only this week, U. Alexis Johnson, who is shortly to leave his post as deputy Undersecretary of State to become our new ambassador to Japan, emphasized that the United States is seeking "a community of truly independent states" in the far East. He said that this country will not "flag in its efforts to join with any country which is prepared to work with good will and sincerity toward the goal of peace, stability, prosperity, and security for all the nations of Asia."

He expressed the hope that "the great Chinese people will ultimately recognize that this is also in their true interest."

President Johnson will dramatize the importance of closer working agreements between the United States and Asia by visiting a half-dozen countries in that region late this month and attending the seventh annual conference to be held in Manila. By going to New Zealand, Australia, the Philippines, Thailand, Malaysia and South Korea, Mr. Johnson will be the first American president to make such a journey.

The truth is that President Johnson's mission to the far East this month is a most important milestone in American diplomacy. It could result in the development of such a mutually beneficial relationship between the Asian countries and the United States that the leaders of Red China would get the point, too. They might come to perceive how really helpful it would be for the Chinese people if the policies of Peking were directed toward making peace in Vietnam. This would initiate at once a new era in the economic progress of all countries in Asia.

act of support for the United Nations and America's continuing interest in the success of the United Nations."

Johnson told newsmen after the visit that he had expressed to Thant "our deep feeling about the U.N. and our gratitude for his leadership and the contribution he has made to promoting better relations between nations."

"I reaffirmed to the secretary-general the viewpoint of my people that not only has he been of great service to the cause of peace, but in this hour of great trial we needed him all the more."

The President thus underlined the U.S. request to Thant to stay on as secretary-general after his present term expires next month.

Johnson's visit was set up with an informality rare for a U.S. chief of state. After addressing a meeting of the National Conference of Editorial Writers in New York, the President asked U.N. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg to call Thant's office and see if a meeting could be arranged.

Johnson was accompanied to the secretary-general's 38th floor office by Goldberg, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche.

Rusk had spent three days talking with Communist and neutralist diplomats here in an effort to find out if North Vietnam was prepared to ease its conditions for negotiations. Indications are that Rusk made little headway. But he is believed to have gotten enough ideas of the diplomatic climate to help Johnson prepare for his conference with Gromyko in Washington next week.

Johnson called on Thant amid a mounting clamor by neutralist nations in the General Assembly for an end to the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam.

Foreign Ministers Swaran Singh of India and Zorko Nikolic of Yugoslavia both told the 118-nation assembly that the air raids should be halted as a preliminary to getting peace negotiations on Viet Nam started.

Denies Daughter Dated Accused Man

A New Paltz family today denied that their daughter was "dating" a 21-year-old man charged with first degree assault and accused by authorities in the sniper-shooting incidents on the Thruway last week.

In an earlier account of the incident, state police quoted William Ott of New Paltz, the accused man, that he was waiting to see the girl when he was met by Robert Wattles, the father, in the driveway of the Wattles residence.

Troopers reported Ott pointed a rifle at Wattles and the latter notified troopers who questioned Ott on the sniper-shooting incidents. Wattles said his daughter "had never dated" Ott. Ott requested a preliminary hearing in the case and at that time was committed to Ulster County jail without bail. He was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Rexford Schneider, Town of New Paltz.

lowed by Mass offered by Bishop McManus at which Archbishop Maguire will preside in the name of Cardinal Spellman. The assembled congregation will join the Bishop in the celebration of this Mass. The choir of Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary will take part in the singing.

Reception Is Planned
After the installation and Mass there will be a reception at which Bishop McManus will have the opportunity to meet the people for the first time in his capacity of Episcopal Vicar. Bishop McManus has expressed the desire to visit all parishes and missions in his area and to meet all the people.

He pointed out that his assignment was not to divide the Archdiocese of New York but to draw a new and better means of communication between the various regions of the Archdiocese and Cardinal Spellman. The post of Episcopal Vicar has been set up by the Vatican II Council to implement its decrees and Bishop McManus said he was happy to have a part of this up-dating of the Catholic Church.

Episcopal Vicars were established by Vatican II Council with a view to bring the Bishop closer to his people and more in touch with their needs — the needs of the church, not merely in the diocese as such but also in the parishes and missions. The Cardinal remains the head of the Archdiocese and the immediate ecclesiastical superior of all the vicars who are appointed. Their appointment means that under his guidance they will help him in the government and administration of the various sectors of the great Archdiocese of New York.

In his letter announcing the appointments Cardinal Spellman wrote: "These episcopal vicars, assisted by the deans, will be charged with the administration of ecclesiastical affairs in the territories assigned to them. They will also administer the Sacrament of Confirmation, make parish visitations, and preside at the meetings of priests and religious of their areas."

"It is expected that the work of the episcopal vicars will help to prepare for the realization of other Conciliar goals, such as the Council of Priests and the Pastoral Council, both for the Vicariate and for the Archdiocese."

Commissioned on Birthday
Bishop McManus, a native of Brooklyn will be commissioned on the occasion of his 66th birthday.

He has spent nearly 30 years in the service of the Church in Puerto Rico. He was ordained at the Redemptorist Seminary of Mount St. Alphonsus at Esopus, in 1927 by Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York and two years later was assigned to the Puerto Rico mission of Caques. He went to Washington, D. C. in 1934 to study at the Catholic University of America and took his doctorate in canon law there in 1937. For the next three years he taught canon law at the Redemptorist Seminary in Esopus.

Reassigned to Puerto Rico in 1940, the future Bishop became the first Redemptorist superior in Agüadilla. In 1945, he was appointed pastor in Mayaguez and given charge of outlying missions. He was engaged in these parish duties when he was named third Bishop of Ponce in 1947. Bishop McManus was consecrated in his home parish of Our Lady of Perpetual Help in the Bay Ridge section of Brooklyn, on July 1, 1947. Bishop William T. McCarthy, C.Ss.R., then Coadjutor Bishop of Salt Lake City, South Dakota, who had been principal Superior of the new Bishop, was the consecrator.

The Brown-Gromyko talks followed a surprise visit by President Johnson to the United Nations Friday, where he talked with Secretary-General U. Thant about Viet Nam peace proposals and other issues.

Thant said the talks were "cordial, frank and useful," but added that they provided "no basis for either optimism or pessimism."

In Tokyo Malik said his country has been asked to help bring an end to the conflict. He added: "We have been requested by several sides to take an active role to help solve the Viet Nam problem."

A mediator's role for Indonesia may have been discussed when Malik met in Washington with Johnson and other U.S. officials, some sources said.

North Viet Nam's Vice Premier Nguyen Duy Trinh ruled out using the United Nations as a forum for settling the Viet Nam conflict.

Addressing a banquet Friday marking the anniversary of "East Germany," Nguyen said the United Nations absolutely has no right to interfere in the Viet Nam affairs.

His remarks were carried by the North Viet Nam news agency in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

Police Check Thefts

Jody Smoller, 38 Linderman Avenue, complained to city police Friday that someone stole her English racer bicycle from the porch of her home. The bicycle was valued at $50. Police were also notified yesterday that someone stole a light valued at $10 from the front of the residence at 41 Johnson Avenue.

The board authorized the supervisor to purchase 12 signs indicating the entry into the Town of Ulster. The signs indicating the town bounds will be 18 by 24 inches in size and will cost $58.80.

A representative of Park Cable TV appeared before the board and requested permission to extend cablevision to the Ruby-Sawkill area. He was advised to ask permission from the utility companies for use of their poles and after such permission is granted, an agreement will be reached with the Town Board.

For some time residents in the area of the Nyaltrale Aggregate plant off Route 32 have complained of the dust and dirt thrown up by the plant. At a meeting Thursday evening a large delegation of residents along Route 32 were present at the board meeting to thank the board for its action in having the condition corrected. It was reported that "scrubbers" had been installed and the condition vastly improved. The delegation presented other suggestions to the board for bettering conditions in the area. The board members promised to assist in these problems as possible.

A communication from the State Department, Division For Youth, was received approving a grant of $2,338.75 for payment of 10 students who worked this summer on the beautification program of the Town of Ulster Park area along the river.

Adoption of the New York State Building Code, effective January 1967, was discussed and the board will study a suitable ordinance for the Town of Ulster. A public hearing will be held on ordinance under which code will be administered. After adoption of an ordinance, building permits will then be issued starting January 1967. A building inspector will be appointed to administer the code.

Hit Oil Dumps
In the air offensive against North Viet Nam, U.S. pilots flew through heavy anti-aircraft fire and rainstorms to hit oil storage areas, coastal barge traffic and transportation facilities in 99 missions.

The raids cost one plane, an Air Force F4 Phantom with a two-man crew. Both fliers were reported missing. The loss was the 395th U.S. plane to go down over North Viet Nam since the air war started in August 1964.

The U.S. Command also reported an Air Force B57 Canberra bomber was shot down while on a strike mission in South Viet Nam today, the 126th plane loss of the war in the south. Both fliers aboard the Canberra bailed out and were rescued 15 miles northeast of Da Nang.

Damage 7 Trucks
In raids over North Viet Nam Friday, U.S. Air Force pilots hit the same stretch of Route 191 north of Dien Bien Phu that they hit the day before. Pilots reported damaging seven trucks and a road grader, setting off fires and explosions in a storage area, and causing a landslide of a section of road which dropped into a gorge.

Navy pilots from the aircraft carriers Oriskany, Intrepid and Coral Sea reported destroying or damaging 56 coastal and inland cargo barges.

Overall, U.S. pilots claimed destroying or damaging 14 bridges, 12 supply and storage buildings, 20 bunkers and a locomotive, 15 trucks and two anti-aircraft gun sites.

In the three-sided allied ground campaign north of Qui Nhon, Korean, South Vietnamese and U.S. troops of the 1st Cavalry Division (Airmobile) are closing in on an enemy force which once numbered about 3,000 men.

783 Enemy Dead
The week-long operation has accounted for 783 enemy dead and 493 prisoners. Allied casualties were described as light.

A U.S. spokesman disclosed that two days ago the Karate-trained South Korean troops fought a bitter, hand-to-hand battle with Communists holed up in three caves on the north end of the Phu Cat Mountains 35 miles north of Qui Nhon.

The Koreans killed 50 enemy in the close quarter-fighting, he said, and took only light casualties themselves. They also captured 18 weapons.

Elsewhere in South Viet Nam, U.S. Marines, supported by air and artillery, reported killing 61 Communists in scattered battles near Da Nang Friday. A U.S. spokesman said an artillery unit of the 101st Airborne Brigade sank 12 small Viet Cong boats on the Cai River northwest of Tuy Hoa.

Flew 338 Sorties
In air action over the south Friday, U.S. pilots flew 338 sorties, claiming damage or destruction to 200 enemy emplacements. South Vietnamese pilots flew 163 sorties.

The U.S. Command disclosed Friday that four U.S. Navy crewmen were injured Wednesday night when a U.S. Navy hovercraft and a patrol boat collided in a channel 36 miles southwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese militia reported killing 22 Viet Cong and capturing three Friday during a search and destroy operation west of Saigon.

In the political scene, the foreign ministers of Britain and the Soviet Union, co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva Conference that brought an end to the French Indochina war and still is responsible for keeping the peace, were to meet in New York. They were expected to discuss reopening the conference.

Manhunt Ends

Lake Katrine barracks and men from the Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

Passenger cars were stopped at roadblocks throughout Southern Ulster and concerned residents kept doors locked and children off the streets.

Brown, the other man involved in the shooting, had been captured at a roadblock near Wiedy's Furniture Co., at Accord, two hours after he allegedly shot Kowalik in the arm with a revolver through the closed window of the station wagon in which he and Davis were riding. At that time the car was parked in front of Smith Brothers Garage at Napanoch and Trooper Kowalik drew alongside to question the two occupants, who had been under surveillance by him for some time for "suspicious actions."

Fires From Seat
Davis was behind the wheel at the time; produced his driver's license and identification for Kowalik. Brown, taken into custody Thursday, was in the garage but, as Kowalik stood by, emerged and climbed into the passenger's seat. From there, in events which followed in rapid succession, culminating in the seemingly senseless shooting of the trooper and a high speed chase along Route 209.

Brown, who is now in jail on a charge of first degree assault, allegedly fired at the trooper before he could be questioned or asked to produce identification. Kowalik was hit in the arm by one of the several shots but not seriously injured and, as the vehicle sped away he fired in its direction; gave chase and, radioed for help along the way. Careening down the highway at speeds exceeding 100 miles an hour, three other troop cars joined Kowalik in the chase, during which almost two dozen shots were fired. The troopers before their station wagon crashed into a fence near the old Grange Hall on Route 209.

Troopers, who had exchanged shots with the pair, followed them into the woods when they leaped from the damaged car and fled on foot. Brown's arrest came about two hours later at a police roadblock when he was reportedly shot in the hand. Davis, from whom he had separated, was still at large at that time. Kowalik, who was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital for a superficial flesh wound and released, rejoined the search for the companion of the man who had shot him.

The intense search for Davis, described as white, five feet, four inches tall and weighing about 125 pounds, has ended. Footwear and sleepers authorities were elated since they had come up with no new leads during the night or morning and had hoped in vain for reports of other stolen cars. Local residents relaxed at the news of the capture of the brown haired, brown eyed, 26-year-old, who had been quoted earlier as saying that he would not be "taken alive."

According to authorities, she was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur B. Bessley, was released after making restitution of the merchandise, paying a $10 fine and receiving a 90-day suspended sentence.

Rockefeller. She also is Chairman of the State Interdepartmental Women's Committee. Both groups serve as advisors to the Woman's Program and in May 1966 cooperated on the Governor's Conference on Women, the first of its kind in the nation. Miss Hall served as co-chairman with Mrs. Kitty Carlisle Hart for the Conference, which was attended by more than 1200 women from all over the State.

The Woman's Program functions in three major areas of women's interests. It provides business counsel to women who wish to market home products or start a small business of their own; it offers consumer information to women's organizations; and promotes job horizons for girls and women. Under Miss Hall's direction, a cooperative project was launched with the State University to develop special vocational programs for women in five Community Colleges in the State.

Prior to her appointment to the Department, Miss Hall was a feature writer and reporter on the New York Herald Tribune where she specialized in women's activities and manufacturing developments of home interest.

She served in the U. S. Coast Guard SPARS during World War II following retailing experience as an assistant buyer in a west coast department store.

Miss Hall is a member of the New York Newspaper Women's Club (president 1956-58); Theta Sigma Phi; and the Committee on Women in Public Relations. In November 1965 Miss Hall was made an Honorary Member of the Advertising Women of New York, and is a member of the National Home Fashions League.

She is a member of the Board of Directors of the Elden Craftsmen Shop in New York City; the New York State Farm-City Council; and St. Luke's Home for Aged Women.

Fred Waring: After 50 Years Still Buses Through His Life and Music

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Waring is still riding the bus. "Why is everybody so surprised?" he asks. "How else would I get, say from Richmond, Wash., to Spokane in the dead of winter?"

The reason for surprise is that Fred Waring, 50 years in show business, might be expected to be taking life easier. He might even be expected not to be on tour in the dead of winter, at all.

But to the 66-year-old Waring, the most natural thing in the world is to spend five months on a bus taking a choral music show to nearly 150 towns, cities and college campuses.

Follows Principles

He's following principles tested during the 50 years — keep learning, work, and make sure the audience understands the words.

Waring's first "professional booking" was in a park on a Saturday night, July 1, 1917, in Altoona, Pa. Rain came down and banjo heads broke but Fred, his brother Tom, Poley McClintock and Fred Buck — high school buddies from Tyrone, Pa., 16 miles away — sang their music, loud and clear.

The Pennsylvanians really date from that downpour in Altoona. After that, the quartet called itself a "banjazzatra," and played for dances for $3 an evening, picked up members during student days at Penn State, started calling itself the Pennsylvanians in 1921, and in the 30s added girls' voices and went in strong for beautifully enunciated singing.

One Miss America

In the past 15 years, 25 Pennsylvanians have been Miss America candidates and one, Jackie Mayer, was Miss America. There's a big changeover in personnel — with the girls it's mostly matrimonial — in the group every year. Waring estimates there have been 5,000 Pennsylvanians over the last 20 years. Of the original four, Tom Waring and Fred Buck are dead; Poley McClintock is still in the group.

At a golden anniversary banquet in New York, 100 former Pennsylvanians put on a two-hour show, from the familiar opening theme, "I Hear Music," to the closing, "Dream, Dream, Dream."

Learned From Mistakes

Waring kept an eye on other bands and entertainers and learned from their mistakes and their triumphs. The most triumphant of all, Waring believes, was Paul Whiteman.

"He gave us jazz dressed up and purified. Before him, everybody said it was sounds from a jungle. Whiteman printed special arrangements of jazz for a special group of musicians, played it in a concert hall and made it acceptable to listen to."

"The only thing he didn't do was sing. We learned to do everything Whiteman did, then we added our voices."

Dispel Theory

The Waring idea about voices is more than merely making sure the words of a song are understood. He says, "We want to dispel the meekly accepted theory that the Italian language is the most beautiful. I believe our language has as much beauty. Our problem is that we have not been singing our language; we have been missing a lot of gorgeous sounds within the syllables."

So Waring developed what he calls "tone syllables," in which the word "my," for example is sung "mah-ee." This led him into publishing music for school, church and community choirs, with the tone syllables written in italics below the lyrics.

While Fred Waring's wavy hair has turned from dark brown to snow white, the Pennsylvanians have been through the show business world — vaudeville, movies, radio, television, Broadway shows, concerts. "But we're still touring and we're still learning," Waring says. "Touring is the only form of show business which is really satisfying and rewarding. You have to know whether people like you. I don't know any other way except by going to them."

Needham Heads Slate Of Officers Elected By Emma Wygant

Harry Needham was elected president to head a new slate of officers for the Emma Wygant Club at the group's first fall meeting, held recently at the Flatbush Road school.

Others elected included Mrs. William Carter, vice president; Norman Prothe, treasurer; and Mrs. Raymond Johnson, secretary.

Speaker at the session was Murray Weiss, executive director of the Ulster County Chapter, State Association for Retarded Children, Edward R. Crosby, chapter president, Mrs. Robert Chieffo, Woodstock, and Warren A. Russell, Kingston, are attending the annual convention of the state association at the Hotel Jamestown through Sunday as delegates from the local chapter. They are joining more than 250 representatives from 47 units of the association. Mrs. Chieffo is corresponding secretary for the county chapter. Russell serves as chairman of the Personnel Practices Committee. Representatives of the chapters will take part in various workshops aimed at strengthening and developing programs within their chapters.

Weiss also told the club that one person has volunteered to conduct an arts and crafts program for retarded children in her home each Saturday morning. He suggested children too old to attend school with no other activities be given first chance for the program.

The speaker said a sheltered workshop is now the main objective of the organization.

Mrs. Stephen Gardeski and Mrs. Mary Kent told the 40 persons attending that a recent visit to a workshop in Stanford, Conn., sponsored jointly by the ARC and New York State, revealed nine workshop graduates had been placed in positions with private industry. In another report, Mrs. Mabelle Mix told of a model workshop in Syracuse, also sponsored by ARC, state and federal funds.

Other discussion included need for religious training, currently prohibited by state law. In other business, members agreed to purchase publications on vocational rehabilitation, activity program and other information for circulation among members and teachers.

Dear Abby . . .
Friends' Problem Is Their Own
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: A pair of sisters-in-law in our circle do not get along and everybody who knows them is aware of it. My husband is friendly with their husbands (they are brothers) and I like both women, so we invited both couples to our daughter's wedding and reception. There were nearly 300 other guests.
Well, I have come in for a lot of criticism since then. People say I should make up my mind which woman I want for my friend and forget that the other one exists. I don't see why I have to make a choice, do you? I would appreciate your opinion.
FAUX PAS
DEAR FAUX: To knowingly invite people who do not get along to an intimate gathering is poor taste. But if two people can't buy their hostess in a group of 300, that's THEIR problem, not yours. Forget it.

DEAR ABBY: I have just returned from church and what I saw made me sick. Please say something to mothers who dress their 11 and 12-year-old daughters in nylons, heels, and let them use a lot of make-up and rat their hair.
Everywhere I looked I saw these children dressed and made-up to look like midgits. Don't mothers realize they do their daughters more harm than good when they let them grow up too fast?

DEAR SAW: Well-meaning mothers in their misguided efforts to make their daughters pretty and popular are not aware of the dangers awaiting a 12-year-old who appears to be much older. Children lack the maturity and experience to handle situations they are sure to encounter when they look older.

Some girls mature faster than others, but it is up to the mother to know how emotionally mature her daughter is, and to dress her accordingly.

Helloise

By MRS. JANE HUNT

Dear Helloise:
About those plastic stack-type vegetable bins . . .
They are great if there is a shortage of linen closets in your home.
I use them in the bathroom for extra towels and wash cloths.
They are inexpensive and can easily be taken along when you move to a new home (without damaging the landlord's property).
Gene Hunt

Those bins can be bought in different colors to match your bathroom color scheme and best of all . . .
Did you know that they also fit wonderfully UNDER the wash basin?
You can stack them to face the front of the basin or use two stacks and face them back to back, leaving open space on each side where the contents aren't so noticeable. This will give a solid looking surface when viewing it from the front.
These bins do come in different sizes. Measure your space before making your purchase. May save a trip to the store to exchange them later.

Time is so precious to us wives. Let's don't waste any of it and, when we can save some let's try to stack that up, too!
Maybe the day will come when we have a whole house or two accumulated and can just pop down in our best chair and rest.
Helloise

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Helloise:
If you have an abstract painting on your wall, try turning it upside down. This will give a new look to the picture.
Shirley M. Jones

Dear Helloise:

A neighbor gave me some gorgeous roses that they were growing as he kept cutting them to have continuous blooms.
I put pastel green nylon net in my vase, and it brought the blooms to a perfect height and also gave the vase a lovely new look.

By sticking the short stems into the nylon net inside the vase, it held the roses in place and enabled me to make a beautiful arrangement.
Adding water, as we all know, has no effect on the beauty or stiffness of the nylon net.
Lynn Davis

Dear Helloise:

A use for an old, discolored plastic tablecloth . . .
Wash the cloth, then use pinkish shears to cut it to the proper size and shape for lining shelves.
These are attractive and so easy to make and keep clean.
Angeline Nemes

DEAR HELOISE:

Many people strain dye with a nylon stocking when dyeing fabric and they have been faced with the problem of only two hands to do it with.
You really end up with both hands dyed along with the fabric!

I solved the problem by stretching the stocking over the top of a five or six-inch wire strainer.
After mixing the dye, it's easy to pour it into the machine through the nylon covered strainer. I then place the strainer under the machine's flow of water for a second, getting more color from the remaining granules.
Nola

DEAR HELOISE:

If you have a flexible spray hose in your bathroom (for taking showers without a regular shower) use it to rinse out the tub after a bath.
Also works great to wash down the sides of the tub while soaking it.
Mrs. Devy Pickering

PANORAMIC VIEW OF SEAMON PARK—All the landscaped beauty of Seamon Park in Saugerties has been caught in the camera lens of Freeman staff photographer, John Krush. The local park, now attired in the autumnal splendor of brilliant foliage and abloom with thousands of fall flowers, is observing Open House Week from Oct. 9 to 15. All area residents are invited to visit the park and enjoy an outing there before the peak colors of the season give way to fallen leaves, bare boughs and flowerless walks.

SAUGERTIES NEW'S

Judges Named
For Contest
On World Peace

President Stuart Buchanan and past president, William D. Brinnier, who compose the local Lions Club Peace Essay Committee, have announced that the following judges have been named to select winners in the contest:
Irving Dreishpoon, Saugerties dentist, of 160 Main Street; Robert S. Russell, officer of the F. L. Russell Corporation of Mt. Marion; and David S. Cunningham, administrative assistant of the Saugerties Central Schools, of 63 Post Street, Saugerties.
They will determine the club's entry in the international contest. The contest is open to all young people in Saugerties who are 14 years of age and under 22 as of January 15, 1967.

The contest was initiated to generate an awareness and understanding of peace among the Saugerties leaders, Brinnier said. He said the contest would release the ideas of a cross section of the world's youth on the most pressing challenge facing the world today.

The contest offers a grand prize of $25,000 in the form of an educational and/or career assistance grant to the world winner. A grand total of $50,000 in awards will be made. In addition to the $25,000 first prize, eight world division semi-finalists will receive $1,000 each and will be given $500 travel expenses to Chicago, Ill., in July, 1967. At that time, the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight. Also, more than 20,000 local, district, and multiple district awards will be made.

The Saugerties Lions Club's winner will be advancing up the ladder to that prize.
The contest, announced at the 49th Annual Lions Convention in New York, by president Edward M. Lindsey, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., is one of the highest of the world's largest service club organizations.

The world-wide contest, open to contestants sponsored by Lions' more than 20,000 clubs throughout the world, is the largest Peace Essay Contest in the world. It is successful at the multiple district level, the winner will advance to a world division and an opportunity for the grand prize. World division winners will receive $1,000 and a trip to Chicago for the 50th Anniversary Convention for the judging of the contest.

"Anyone who wants the rules and further details of the contest should contact any member of the Saugerties Lions Club, or me," Buchanan said. Lions' membership in more than 130 countries in the world, is the largest service club organization in the world.

Lions Club Hears
Speaker on Scouts

Saugerties Lions Club held its weekly dinner meeting at the Flamingo Restaurant, Route 9W, last night.

The heard president Stuart Buchanan present the guest speaker, Harry Hoffman, a member of the Executive Board of the Rip Van Winkle Council of Boy Scouts of America. Hoffman stressed the value of Scouting in building young America, and reported on the 13 units in the Saugerties area. Among these units are Cub packs, Scout troops and an Explorer's unit. Hoffman reported that the Community Chest program, now underway in the Saugerties area, provides half the budget of the Rip Van Winkle Boy Scout Council. He also urged all Lions to participate in Scouting wherever possible, not only to assist financially, but to actively aid in working and training youth in Saugerties.

President Buchanan reminded the club that on Oct. 17, the current membership drive, in which each local Lion is to bring in a new member, will terminate, and that an installation of new members will be featured then. Also, on this evening, Mickey Walker, former light heavyweight champion of the world, will be the main speaker.

Lion Louis P. Francello, temporary chairman of the nominating committee, presented the following names for club officers and the entire slate was unanimously elected by the club: William Farrell, secretary; Robert Campbell, treasurer; and Irving Dreishpoon, tail-twister.

New Day Nursery
Offers Variety
Of Fun and Play

In the Community Day Nursery School at Dutch Arms Chapel, John Street, Saugerties, 17 happy children start each morning by sharing the important thoughts that three-and-four-year-olds have with each other and with Mrs. James Lunn, their teacher. The two-and-a-half-hour session is planned to meet the needs of the age group. Furniture and equipment are tailored to the children and the vigorous use to which they put it.

Much of the time the children are free to choose their play activities. Some prefer to play quietly by themselves and, for these boys and girls, shelves hold such things as puzzles, peg sets, small building sets and design blocks. The creative urge can be satisfied by finger painting, crayoning and brush painting at the easels. Many of the boys become members of a junior construction crew, using the various sized building blocks and ride-on trucks. For the girls and boys who want to demonstrate their ideas of the domestic situation, a child-size home area is available—complete with sink, stove, refrigerator, hutch, dishes, table and chairs, ironing board and cradles with babies.

Other aspects of the program include story and record time, juice and cracker snack, brief rest period and group playing and marching. During clear weather, children have an opportunity to climb and slide on the sturdy, bright, outdoor equipment, built by some of the parents.

Credit for the high degree of success of the nursery school program is due Mrs. Lunn. Her aim is to enable each child in her charge to learn to enjoy himself while playing and respecting the others in the group. Mrs. Lunn's five years' experience in kindergarten, summer recreation work and substitute teaching has provided a good background for her present position. It is interesting that Mrs. Lunn holds membership in the Woodstock Guild of Craftsman, where some of her silver and enamel work is now exhibited; Performing Arts of Woodstock, Arts Choralis choral group and Trailweepers Ski Club.

There is room for two or three new pupils if parents will call the Rev. Jay Orville Hine before Nov. 1, for any further information.

School Lunch Week
Will Be Oct. 9-15

Mrs. Helen Tompkins, president of the Ulster County School Food Service Association, today listed the merits of the school lunch program in county schools. She noted that National School Lunch Week was being observed Oct. 9-15.

Mrs. Tompkins said, "The school lunch program has a vital place in all schools because it contributes to the learning experience of every child who uses its facilities."

"Besides being part of the total education program, Mrs. Tompkins said, 'a school lunch provides good nutrition for the growing child and gives students an opportunity to eat new foods.' "Does your child eat a school lunch every day?" Mrs. Tompkins asked.

A Poughkeepsie motorist was issued a summons for improper passing early Friday night after a rear-end collision resulted in a Shandaken woman being taken to Kingston Hospital complaining of whiplash of the neck. Highland state troopers reported that a car driven by Lowell Dutcher, 45, of Shandaken, was struck in the rear at 9:45 p. m. Friday night by a car operated by Charles Johnson, 29, Poughkeepsie. Dodgers Have 'Win or Else' Game Today in Baltimore

Osteen, Bunker Ready to Start 3rd Series Tilt

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — "A lot of things happened to us this year that never happened before," Sandy Koufax said. And there probably was no better way to sum up the Los Angeles Dodgers' problems as they sent Claude Osteen to the mound against Baltimore's Wally Bunker today in the third game of the World Series.

The Dodgers will try to accomplish something that has never happened before in Series history — coming from behind to win after losing the first two games at home.

Four teams have reversed an 0-2 tailspin and gone on to the world championship since the Series became a best-of-seven showdown — the 1955 Dodgers, 1956 and 1958 Yankees and 1963 Dodgers — but all lost their first two games on the road.

Have Looked Bad
In addition, Dodger Manager Walter Alston admitted after Thursday's 6-0 loss, in which the Dodgers committed a record-setting six errors, that "We've been down before but we've never looked this bad."

The Dodgers not only looked bad on the field, but on paper as well. They collected just seven hits in the first two games for a pitiful .115 average compared with .246 for the Orioles, who have yet to make an error.

And Bob Johnson, one of the Orioles' reserve infielders, said he thought he detected a crack in the Dodgers' spirit during the comedy of errors that took place under the California sun Thursday.

"After Lou Johnson made an out," Johnson said, "He walked with his head down and the umpire had to hurry him off the field."

That exemplifies their spirit. If that wasn't enough, the Dodgers were getting their first look at Memorial Stadium, a park more suitable to the Orioles' long-ball talents than the National League Champions' bunt-and-run tactics.

Still the picture wasn't all bleak for Alston. "It's not so much where you play," he said. "We've just got to play better baseball."

The Dodgers did just that last year after Don Drysdale and Koufax lost the first two games at Minneapolis. Moving back to their own park, the Dodgers faced a win-or-else proposition — and the stopper was Osteen, who shut out the Twins 4-0.

"Osteen's a great competitor," Alston said. "He has great spirit. He also has real poise. I've never seen him upset. But his competitive spirit is what really sets him apart."

Osteen felt he had the odds on his side. "When you know that we're not accustomed to playing like we have been I feel everything's going with me," he said. "We just don't play that way. We don't go out and beat ourselves three days in a row."

Expect 55,000
A crowd of standing-room-only proportions, expected to reach 55,000, began to pour into the ball park early for the Osteen-Bunker matchup. Game time was 1 p.m., EDT, with national television coverage on NBC.

Osteen, a 27-year-old left-hander, compiled a 17-14 record during the regular season. Bunker, a 21-year-old right-hander, had a 10-6 record but won only two games after July 27 when he was placed on the disabled list because of a tender right elbow.

The Dodgers' biggest worries were Oriole second baseman Dave Johnson, who took a 300 batting average into the game, and Frank Robinson and Boog Powell, each hitting .375.

FIRST TO REGISTER for the national "Punt, Pass and Kick" contest in the Kingston area was Charles Belser, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Belser of Florence Street, Kingston. The "Punt Pass and Kick" contest is a nationwide competition sponsored locally by Johnson Ford, Inc. Winners of the Kingston contest to be held the morning of Oct. 15 at Hasbrouck Park, will go on to compete in area, district, and division con-

Grant McCovey's Wife Uncontested Divorce
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie McCovey, first baseman for the San Francisco Giants, gave the silent treatment to his wife, she testified in winning an uncontested divorce.

Karen McCovey, a 23-year-old former beauty queen, told the court Friday that the All Star National League first baseman only spoke to say he didn't love her anymore.

They were married last year in Reno, Nev., and have a daughter, Allison. Custody of the girl and $275 monthly child support were granted Mrs. McCovey by Judge Edward Molkenburgh of the San Francisco Superior Court. There was an undisclosed property settlement but no alimony.

Pivotal Contest Browns Host Steelers Tonight in NFL Clash

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers come steaming up the turnpike for tonight's game with the Cleveland Browns, and they make no bones about it—they're looking for an upset victory over the heavily favored Browns.

Pittsburgh coach Bill Austin says his Steelers are in good shape and are primed for victory. The Browns also are in pretty good physical condition, but that isn't what concerns coach Blanton Collier. He is more interested in the team's mental condition at the moment.

In their first four games, the Browns have looked good on occasion but have had some lapses. "One of the players—I guess it was Dick Schafrath—said that we haven't jelled," Collier remarked. "Well, this would be a good time for us to do just that."

The coach said the Browns have "played pretty good football most of the time but little things have hurt us. Ten of the men will carry out assignments, but the 11th man can mess up an entire play."

Some 80,000 fans are expected to jam Municipal Stadium for the Saturday evening game with Pittsburgh, which has become a fixture on the Browns' schedule in recent years. In regular season games between the two clubs, the Browns hold a heavy advantage — 24 victories to eight for the Steelers.

Giants in St. Louis
In Sunday's key NFL games, Eastern Conference-leading St. Louis, bidding for its fifth straight victory, entertains New York, 0-3-1, and Green Bay's Western Conference pace-setters put their 4-0 mark on the line at San Francisco.

Elsewhere, Baltimore, 2-1, is at Chicago, 1-2; Los Angeles, 3-1 at Detroit, 2-2; Philadelphia, 2-2 at Dallas, 3-0 and Atlanta, 0-4 at Washington, 2-2.

The Cardinals, led by quarterback Charlie Johnson, a tenacious defense and rookie break-away threats Johnny Roland and Roy Shivers, are solid favorites over a New York club that has yielded 149 points in four starts. They have never beaten the Giants at St. Louis, however, and dropped both 1965 meetings, 14-10 and 28-15.

Green Bay, the NFL's stingiest defensive club, is a touchdown pick over the 49ers, who forced the Packers into a Western Conference playoff last year by tying them 24-24 on the final weekend of the season. The Bears, who edged Minnesota 13-10 last Sunday for their first victory, are slight underdogs to Baltimore in their home opener. In the clubs' second 1965 meeting Colt quarterback John Unitas suffered a knee injury that sidelined him for the remainder of the season.

Start Road Trip
Coach George Allen's resurgent Rams, paced by fullback Dick Bass and a defense that picked off four passes in last week's triumph over the 49ers, begin a three-game road trip against Detroit, their nemesis over the past five years. The Lions are 9-1-1 over Los Angeles in their last 11 meetings.

The high-scoring Cowboys, one-half game behind St. Louis in the East, send swift Bob Hayes, who has grabbed four touchdown passes, and surprising Dan Reeves, who has scored six times, against the Eagles, who collapsed in the second half against the Cards last Sunday.

Washington, coming off two straight victories over Pittsburgh, is a top-heavy favorite to make it three in a row against the fumbling young Falcons.

Rookie League Slates Meeting
Newburgh Rookie League has scheduled a meeting Monday, Oct. 10, at the Judson P. Gallows American Legion Home in Newburgh at 7:30 p.m.

The league is expected to be realigned for the 1967 season and possible franchise changes will be made, if enough interest is shown by any town or city in the mid-Hudson valley. Interested baseball officials are invited to the meeting.

Near Deadline For School Tax Payments Here

All taxpayers of the Kingston Consolidated School District are reminded that only a few days remain in which to pay the first installment of 1966-67 school taxes, without interest. All payments must be in the hands of the Collector by October 15. Remittances for the first installment received after that date must be returned if interest has not been added.

Interest from October 16 to November 15 is at 2 per cent and from November 16 to December 15 at 3 per cent. No interest will be charged on the second installment if that payment is received before December 15th.

The office of the Collector is located in the George Washington School building and is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. The office will not be open on Wednesday, October 12, but will be open the usual hours (9 a. m. until 4 p. m.) on Saturday, Oct. 15, the final day.

Vote to Up Blood Cost Planned by Red Cross

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Officials of 21 Red Cross chapters in western New York and northern Pennsylvania are planning to vote within the next two weeks on a recommendation that charges to some hospitals for blood be increased by 50 per cent.

The recommendation was discussed Thursday at a meeting in Lockport of a regional blood-collecting committee.

Under the proposal, some hospitals, mainly those in smaller, outlying communities, would pay $7.50 per pint of blood, beginning next July 1. They now pay $5.

A Red Cross spokesman here said Friday the suggested increase was made because of rising costs of collecting, processing and distributing the blood. The present rate has been in effect since 1963, he said, adding that actual cost of the operation is $9 a pint.

Hospitals in Buffalo and Erie County would not be affected by the increase, the spokesman said, because blood needs for them are met through United Fund donations.

Feature Winner

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP)—Sana's Son, a 9-year-old gelding, scored an upset in beating by 2 1/4 lengths the favored Gorgia Moss in the $1,200 seventh race feature Friday at Finger Lakes Race Track.

Ned's Mike finished third. The winner covered the 1-mile distance in 1:42 and paid $48.40, $11.20 and $4.60.

A crowd of 2,496 wagered $150,427.

RFK Urges Help

NEW YORK (AP)—Whether the war in Viet Nam is just or not, Americans should make an effort to help the country in solving its refugee problems, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy says.

Talking to more than 600 college and high school students who gathered in Washington, D.C., on Friday, the New York Democrat said, "All of us know the heavy toll (the war) is taking among the civilian population. We may not all agree to the course of the war, but none of us can fail to recognize the plight of the Vietnamese people and do all that we can to give them assistance."

Kennedy's voice was carried over loudspeakers to the students gathered in the Hunter College Auditorium. He called on the group to raise money for the private voluntary relief agencies working with refugees in South Viet Nam.

"Whether the war is just or unjust," those people are innocent victims," Kennedy said. During a question and answer period on the war, the senator noted that he has "some reservations about some of the things taking place" in South Viet Nam. But he added, "If you're going to ask me how to end the war, I haven't got an answer."

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Appropriations Committee has approved a sharply cut military construction appropriations bill totaling $96,518,000. The figure was $32,822,000 less than the House voted last month and also was $56,596,000 below the amount requested by President Johnson.

The initial Defense Department submission earlier this year called for authorization of a construction program with a total price tag of $1,044,554,000. The original measure included these New York State projects, the specific facilities involved and the amount.

Newspaper Receives Award for Cooperation

MOODUS, Conn. (AP)—The Danbury, Conn., News-Times holds The New England Associated Press News Executives Association award for outstanding cooperation with The Associated Press during 1965.

The association presented The News-Times a certificate Friday night which read: "For membership cooperation beyond the call of duty. For fast and complete coverage of the airline collision over the Connecticut-New York area on Dec. 4, 1965."

Work Despite Weekend
The fact that the accident was on a Saturday afternoon and their newspaper would not publish until Monday, provided the AP with news and pictures from the first tip until the story was wrapped up.

The certificate was presented by Thomas K. Brindley, news editor of the Fall River, Mass., Herald-News and accepted by Stephen Collins, editor of the Danbury News-Times.

Brindley is chairman of the organization's continuing studies committee, which recommended the award to the association, holding its annual meeting here.

Coverage Staff Effort
In accepting the award, Collins said that coverage of the air collision by News-Times staffers for The Associated Press was a staff effort from start to finish. "It would be impossible to pick out any one individual as having done any more than the others," Collins said.

Recover Bodies

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP)—Searchers have recovered the bodies of three Montreal residents—two men and a woman—killed when their small plane crashed near the top of 4,400-foot Mt. Mansfield.

State police Friday night identified the dead as David Schefler, 42, the pilot; Robert Rosen, 46, and Mary Pert, 30, who was public affairs director of radio station CJAD in Montreal.

The plane crashed Thursday night after the Burlington Airport directed it out of the landing pattern to allow other planes to land. The Schefler plane failed to call in again.

The plane apparently flew directly into the craggy mountainside.

San Diego Visits Shea, Slated to Face Jets

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

For the first time in their brief history, the New York Jets play a crucial game—the official sports cliché reserved for games between title contenders.

The Jets step into the spotlight tonight against the San Diego Chargers, an old hand at the big game, in a Shea Stadium struggle between the remaining unbeaten teams in the American Football League.

New York, trying to rebound from a 24-24 tie at Boston last Sunday, take a 3-0-1 mark and the Eastern Division lead against the annual Western Division champion Chargers, 4-0, in one of three Saturday night AFL games.

Boston plays at Buffalo and Denver travels to Kansas City in the other two. Television fans will see Miami at Oakland on NBC-TV Sunday afternoon.

Minnesota of the AFL and Minnesota of the NFL have byes.

Seeks Revenge

New York, whose best previous record was 7-7, has its finest chance to gain some revenge for its 1-12-1 record against the Chargers since New York first fielded an AFL team in 1960. The losses included such beatings as 48-13, 40-14, 33-7, 38-3, 34-9, and 38-7.

The Jets take the league's leading offense and defense into the game, although the Chargers have yielded only 37 points. Joe Namath, of course, does the throwing for the Jets with Don Maynard, George Sauer and Pete Lammons catching. Matt Snell is the running threat.

Johnny Sample, who leads the league with five interceptions, is one of the defensive standouts.

Experts Watch 6 Key Districts For Voter Trends

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six widely scattered House districts will be watched closely by political analysts on election night for clues to the voting trend across the country.

All have been accurate as electoral indicators over the past decade, reflecting the swings that have seen Democratic strength in the House fluctuate between 234 representatives in 1956 and 295 in 1964.

The House is considered a key battleground in the Nov. 8 election with the results likely to determine whether President Johnson maintains a working majority for his domestic program.

Republicans need to gain 78 seats to win numerical control. But a gain of fewer than 30 would put them in position to combine with Southern Democratic critics of the administration to block key bills as they often were able to do before 1964.

The six bellwether districts, all now represented by freshmen Democrats, are the Connecticut 4th, Indiana 9th, Iowa 4th, Ohio 10th, Pennsylvania 19th and Wisconsin 1st.

A recent Associated Press survey of freshmen Democratic prospects produced a mixed picture in the bellwether districts, with two Democrats reported ahead, two considered behind and two about even with their GOP opponents.

Reported leading their GOP opponents were Reps. Lee H. Hamilton, whose southern Indiana district has been redistricted somewhat to his advantage since 1964, and Bert A. Bandstra, who is seeking a return victory in south central Iowa against former Rep. John R. Kyl.

Reported behind were Reps. Walter H. Moeller of Ohio, who served two earlier terms before his defeat in 1962, and Donald J. Irwin of Connecticut, whose Fairfield County district has sent him and Republican Abner W. Sibal to Washington for two terms each in the past eight years.

The two districts in which the candidates appear even are represented by Rep. N. Neiman Craley Jr., trying to repeat a 1964 victory over former Rep. George A. Gooding in the southern Pennsylvania district in which former President Dwight D. Eisenhower lives, and Lynn E. Staubaum, again pitted against former Rep. Henry S. Schadeberg in the Racine-Kenosha area of southeastern Wisconsin.

All six districts elected Republicans in 1956 when Democrats held a 234-231 House advantage despite Eisenhower's landslide victory. But all went Democratic in 1958, when Democrats won 283 seats to 153 for the Republicans.

In 1960, when Republicans gained 21 seats to deny the late President John F. Kennedy a working majority in the House, all but Moeller's district went back into Republican hands. In 1962, Republicans were elected in all six districts as the Democratic majority dropped from 262-175 to 258-176.

The Johnson landslide of 1964 returned the districts to Democratic control and gave Congress the biggest Democratic majority since 1936.

Drink Factor in Most BOSTON (AP) — Drinking was a factor in most of the fatal, single-car accidents in Massachusetts this year, says an insurance firm representative.

Dr. George W. Wheatley, senior medical officer of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., said a study showed excessive drinking figured in 78 per cent of the 59 single-car fatalities between Jan. 1 and the end of September.

CIA Counsel Says Agency Knew of B26 Plane Sale

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Censored records of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) have been introduced into the federal court trial of two men charged with conspiring to export B26 bombers to Portugal illegally.

Lawrence R. Houston of Washington, C., chief counsel for the CIA, testified Friday that the records indicated the agency had information May 25, 1965 that the Portuguese government had purchased 22 of the World War II-vintage warplanes from a private company.

After Contract Signed

According to previous testimony in the U.S. District Court trial, this was nearly a week before the first B26 was flown overseas and four days after the contract for the planes was signed.

Copies of the CIA documents were admitted into evidence after a 40-minute closed-door session in the chambers of Judge John O. Henderson, during which certain portions were deleted for security reasons.

Houston has been subpoenaed at the request of Edwin Marger, lawyer for one of the defendants, John R. Hawke, 28, a former Royal Air Force pilot now of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The other accused man is Henri de Montmarin, a 58-year-old French businessman.

Hawke has maintained that the flights were undertaken with the secret consent of the CIA. Government officials have denied the charge.

Another witness as trial completed its third week was Herbert M. Mason Jr., a free-lance writer from San Antonio, Tex. Mason said Gregory R. Board, 45, who also was indicted on conspiracy charges, told him Portugal wanted the bombers to prevent a Communist-inspired uprising in the nation's African colony of Mozambique.

Board fled Country

Board, a native Australian now of Tucson, Ariz., fled the country before he could be arrested and reportedly is in Jamaica, West Indies.

Mason said Board told him "the Communists were in the process of training an army in Tanzania formerly Tanganyika." Within two years, he continued, the armed force would enter Mozambique "to start a revolution and pass off this insurrection as a popular uprising... the same problem, as we now have in Viet Nam."

Mason added that during the conversation, which he said took place in July, 1965, Board said he had State Department approval for the flights but did not

Soon after Al Smith was elected governor of New York for the first time, he went to Sing Sing to visit the state prison. After being shown the buildings by the warden, the governor was asked to speak to the inmates. He was embarrassed, having never spoken to the inmates of a prison before, and did not know quite how to begin. Finally, he said:

Al Smith—My fellow citizens. Then he remembered that when one goes to state's prison, he is no longer a citizen. So, the governor was even more embarrassed, and said:

Al Smith—My fellow convicts. That did not sound just right, so Al said:

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor troubles held the business spotlight during the week.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, Oct. 8, the 281st day of 1966, there are 84 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1934, Bruno Richard Hauptmann was indicted for murdering the infant son of Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh.

In 1871, the great Chicago fire began in Mrs. O'Leary's barn. In 1981, Sgt. Alvin York, of the U.S. 82nd Division, practically single-handed, killed 28 Germans and captured 132 in the Argonne Forest in France. In 1940, the United States advised Americans to leave the Far East.

In 1944, Wendell Willkie, Republican presidential nominee in 1940, died in New York at the age of 52.

Ten years ago — Don Larson, right-handed pitcher of the New York Yankees, pitched a perfect game—the first no-hit, no-run game in a World Series — against the Brooklyn Dodgers. Five years ago—Prince Souvanna Phouma, a neutralist, announced that he had been chosen as the premier of Laos. This, he said, was the result of a series of meetings with representatives of the pro-Western Laotian regime and the country's pro-Communist political faction.

One year ago — President Johnson underwent successful gall bladder surgery at Bethesda Naval Hospital in Maryland.

Highland Youth Charged

A 15-year-old Highland youth will answer to charges of malicious mischief and juvenile delinquency in Ulster County Family Court later this month after allegedly throwing bottles at a man in a telephone booth. The incident occurred Friday night around 10 o'clock in the Grand Union Shopping Center in Highland. Investigating state trooper Joseph F. Czatlacki and Robert B. Whalen, Highland, said the youth became involved in an argument with the man and began throwing the bottles, breaking the glass in the booth. The occupant of the booth was not injured, according to troopers.

exterior parts, resulted in a total of 44,600 workers being idled. The strike was caused by a dispute over working conditions.

Strike Cost Estimate

It was estimated that the strike cost Chrysler 20,000 cars from its assembly schedule. Chrysler and the United Auto Workers Union reached agreement to end the dispute late in the week.

General Motors sent home 3,000 hourly rated employees from a Fisher Body plant in St. Louis after 3,900 workers struck at the adjacent Chevrolet plant.

More than 4,800 workers were on strike at the main assembly plant of Ford Motor Co. of Canada at Oakville, Ont.

Oil 6 PC in Year

Auto production during the week was scheduled to fall 5 per cent from last week and 6 per cent from a year ago.

The industry scheduled an estimated 172,900 car assemblies at U.S. plants, compared with 181,837 last week and 184,067 a year ago.

On another labor front, General Electric Corp. and the AFL-CIO International Union of Electrical Workers were engaged in hard bargaining in Washington. At the beginning of the week President Johnson won a two-week delay in a threatened nationwide walkout.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said a strike would threaten seriously the flow of military hardware to Viet Nam. He said this included engines for jet fighters and helicopters, radar and other electronic equipment, bomb sights and aircraft weapons.

Offered Contract

General Electric has offered a three-year contract with wage increases of 4 per cent the first year and 3 per cent each in the second and third years, additional increases for higher-skilled employees, 6 cents in cost-of-living raises over the three years and pension and insurance improvements. The union demanded bigger cost-of-living increases, better procedures for settling grievances and other gains to make up for what it calls poor contracts of earlier years.

Harking back to a labor dispute already settled, Gardner Ackley, chairman of President Johnson's Council of Economic Advisors, denounced as "clearly inflationary" the wage settlement between American Airlines and the Transport Workers Union.

Cost Over Guidepost

He put the cost of the agreement at 6.5 per cent a year, more than double the government's wage guidepost figure of 3.2 per cent.

"Any business which agrees to terms like these cannot justifiably complain about the deterioration of the purchasing power of the dollar; and any union which demands them has lost any right to complain about the rise in the cost of living," Ackley said.

The stock market continued to decline, falling to its lowest level in nearly three years.

Automakers raised suggested retail prices on some optional equipment on the 1967 models as much as 27.8 per cent.

May Pay Extra $50

If buyers continue to load their cars with extra equipment — as they have in recent years — they may end up paying an extra $50 or more in higher option prices.

Following the lead of the Big Three automakers, American Motors raised prices $56 to $111 on its 1967 models, or an average of 577.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reported that a survey of its members showed that new order and production rates gained in September.

tember but the improvement was below last year's upturn. This, it said, caused concern over the outlook for the next year.

Consumers increased their installment credit by $602 million during August to a record $91.48 billion; the largest dollar expansion since March, the Federal Reserve Board reported.

Steel production for the week dipped to 2,615,000 tons from 2,645,000 the previous week.

Questions Often Asked About Chest Drives

Why does the Chest spend money for fireworks at the kick off? This is a good question in view of the present Community Chest campaign to raise $299,600, which represents 50 per cent increase over the amount received last year. The question frequently asked these past few days—then why spend money on a regular fireworks display?

The Campaign Cabinet, which consists of the chairman of the eight divisions of the campaign, decided to have parades of the five areas of the Chest followed by a fireworks display at Dietz Stadium to highlight the campaign. In order to raise this goal of $299,600, every citizen must be fully aware of the Community Chest, its agencies, their services and the need for their support. How else can you insure this? We have used the newspapers, radio, mailed newsletters, spoke to every organization meeting we can. It was then decided to insure this objective in reaching everyone with a firework display since it is a proven fact we all love fireworks and will come.

Frankly it is a calculated risk as to whether it is a worthwhile investment. It was made after very careful thought and we are still optimistic. We hope to see all there tonight at 8 p. m. at Dietz stadium. Numerous other acts will proceed the fireworks and 150 prizes will be awarded.

Next question to be answered is—How is the Chest Goal Determined?

Still Receiving Faint Signals From Surveyor 1

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Surveyor 1, which transmitted to Earth last June 11,000 pictures of the moon's surface, still is alive today, says a spokesman at Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

The spokesman said, "We heard weak signals from Surveyor 1. It's still barely alive. It responded to commands with a faint radio signal, but it has a severe power problem."

"It's hard to say if there are chances of getting new photographs. We'll be trying over the next couple of days, but it appears doubtful."

The sun will set Monday morning on the moon, the spokesman said, sending the temperatures on the lunar surface to minus 250 degrees. He said JPL will make a concerted effort between now and Monday to get new pictures.

Surveyor 1 is powered by battery and sunlight on its solar panels. Once the sun sets on the moon, the craft loses this source of power.

Surveyor 1 soft landed on the moon June 1 and began sending high-quality pictures to earth of possible Apollo astronaut landing areas. JPL lost contact with the craft July 13. The mission was considered an extraordinary success.

City Man Charged With Robbery in Beating Incident

Accused of assaulting and robbing a 72-year-old man on East Pierpont Street near Broadway shortly before 2:30 a. m. today, William J. Williams, 25, a race track groom, from 237 Hasbrouck Avenue, was arrested on a charge of first degree robbery. Williams was accused in the assault on William Fox, RD 3, Box 262, Kingston, hit with a club by a man said to have taken more than $100 from him during a scuffle.

Fox was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctors Ambulance. He was treated for severe face and head injuries.

According to police, a resident called headquarters at 2:30 a. m. for an officer. Patrolmen Raymond Wells and Curtis VanDemarke responded and learned of the assault. An ambulance was summoned.

Williams was later taken in custody by the two officers. Assisting in the investigation were Detective Harold DeGraff, Officers Kenneth Radcliff, Meyer Levy.

Police were told that after the attack on the elderly man, his assailant drove off in an automobile with another unidentified person.

After 10 a. m., a spokesman at Benedictine Hospital said the condition of Fox was listed as fair.

Women Always Last to Know, Ask Lt. Dengler

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Navy Lt. (j.g.) Dieter Dengler, the American pilot who escaped from a Communist prison camp in Laos, married pretty, blonde Marina Adamich in a civil ceremony in Reno Friday night.

Miss Adamich had announced on Monday, that their engagement had been broken off. "I will never marry him," she said then. There was no further explanation — nor an explanation of her second change of heart.

The two took out a marriage license at the Washoe County Courthouse shortly before 9 p. m. and walked across the street to the Park Wedding Chapel where Warren D. Ward, a Church of Christ minister, performed the ceremony.

Obviously in Love

An unidentified employee of the chapel said they were "very, very happy, very, very darling and obviously in love."

They told no one their honeymoon plans and disappeared following the service.

"He's changed," said Miss Adamich, 24, a chemical research assistant at Stanford University, when she had announced the engagement had been broken. "We just could never marry now."

The German-born Dengler, 28, had announced only hours before that they would be married Oct. 16. After Miss Adamich made her public statement, the pilot said, "The doctors think it is not possible. It is a medical condition. Right now we simply cannot say when our wedding date will be."

Captured Feb. 7

Dengler's Skyraider plane was shot down near the Laotian border Feb. 2. He bailed out but was captured by a band of Communist Pathet Lao.

He escaped from the prison camp and spent 23 days in the Laotian jungle. An Air Force helicopter crew spotted him in an open field near the Laotian border and rescued him July 20.

Air Taxi Shuttle Service Outlined

The speed and convenience of air taxi service between Dutchess County Airport and JFK International Airport were discussed Friday in a special "community briefing" at the Red Bull Motor Inn, Poughkeepsie. Among those taking part in the meeting were Kingsley Morse, president of Command Airways and Frank Johnson, manager of passenger service—New York, American Airlines.

Morse stated that his all twin-engine fleet offers the utmost in convenience and reliability.

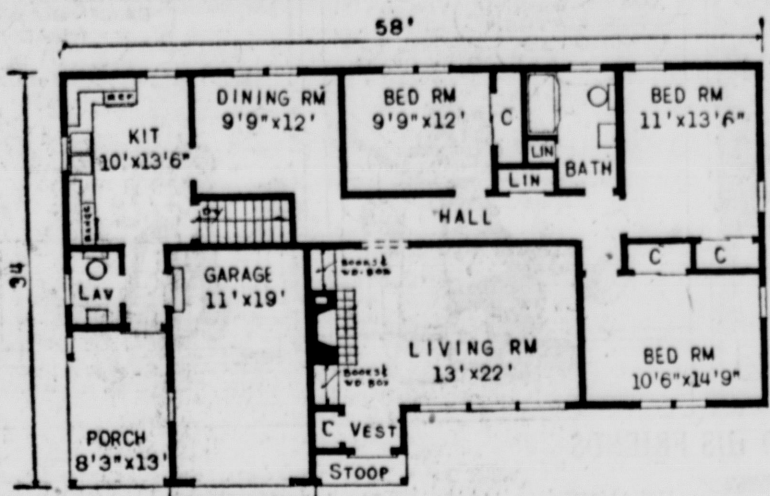

It was pointed out that as part of the Metro Air Service System, passengers have all the advantages of through reservations, ticketing and baggage convenience right in their own hometown airport. Command services Dutchess, Orange, Putnam and Ulster counties. There are eight flights daily beginning at 7 a. m. and continuing up till 11 p. m.

Morse, who recently took over the ownership of Command stated that the success of the air taxi shuttle has been proven over the past year by the increasing number of passengers who are using the service. Each service is designed to care for the needs of the neighborhood airport.

The five air taxi lines making up Metro Air Service and the neighborhood airports they serve are: Air Taxi Co., Red Bank, New Jersey; Chatham Aviation, Morristown, New Jersey; Mac Air, Mac Arthur Airport, Ronkonkoma, L. I. and Bridgeport, Conn.; Princeton Aviation, New Jersey; and Command Airways.

Airy, Spacious Bedroom And Plenty of Wall Space

By JACK McLENEY

There's a snug home waiting for you in the new Associated Architects' home plan called "The Tilden." By snug, of course, I mean the house will look as if it "belongs," whether you build it in the suburbs, the city or the open country. As for size, why "The Tilden" has three bedrooms and living quarters that will satisfy even the most blasé of house hunters. All this—and a garage—in 34 by 58 feet.

The bedrooms are spacious, airy and light. All have wardrobes (not merely closets) that are not only bigger, but have

Which brings me to the living room, 13 by 22 feet, with the kind of wall space that you'll need for larger pieces of furniture, including your television set. A handsome fireplace is included, flanked as it is by ceiling-high bookshelves with storage space below. A vestibule (with coat closet) is just ahead of the living room, a buffer for the outdoors.

I could mention other features of this house like the living room window wall or the sheltered porch, but I think you'd rather see all of the details for yourself. You do this by ordering working drawings (use accompanying coupon). These prints may also be used in actual construction, of course.

Please say if you want plans with basement or without. The living area of this house comes to 1,470 square feet; porch and garage add another 300 square feet for a total of 1,770 square feet.

With your plans you'll receive, at no extra cost, a set of specifications to help protect your interests.

Naturally, this plan meets Federal Housing Administration (FHA) property and construction requirements. In addition, wiring follows fire safety specifications of the National Electrical Code.

If your taste runs to concrete block or brick veneer (instead of the wood siding shown in the artist's sketch) the same plans show how all three may be used.

smart-looking, modern sliding doors for adding many feet of usable wall space. Bedroom sizes range from 10½ by 14½ feet to 9½ by 12 feet.

It goes without saying that the bath is centrally located in relation to the bedrooms. But this bath has a custom niche for its tub, a linen closet all its own and sufficient area to locate the washbasin beyond the swing of the door. In other words, precious space is put to best use.

A central hall connects bedrooms, dining and living rooms, resulting in ready accessibility to all parts of the house. Also, the garage has a door leading to the kitchen. Off the kitchen is a lavette. No excuse for the home mechanic working about the house with soiled hands.

The work area of the kitchen is shaped like a capital "L." See in the floor plan how this adds spaciousness to the room. Moreover, the L shape is easy on the feet. There is room for a dinette table and chairs, or, if you wish, laundry equipment. The dining room, large enough for a full set of dining furniture, has a pair of cheerful windows that will make your meals all the pleasanter.

"Brigadoon" brings its haunting music and enchantment of the Scottish highlands to home screens Saturday, Oct. 15, in a 90-minute ABC color special. Starring in the Lerner-Loewe musical will be: Sally Ann Howes, Peter Falk and Robert Goulet.

'Brigadoon' Set to Cast Its Spell in 90-Minute Video Special

By ISOBEL ASHE

Hollywood "Brigadoon," the well-beloved Lerner and Loewe musical, is scheduled to cast its enchantment over the home screen as a special on ABC Saturday evening, Oct. 15. But its executive producer, Norman Rosemont, prefers to call the Robert Goulet-Sally Ann Howes-Peter Falk starrer an "event." If YOU had spent over seven years working on a show, you'd consider it as something pretty unusual, too!

What took so long?

"Clearances, primarily," says the rugged Rosemont, who looks more like an ex-football player than an executive who knows his way around Madison Avenue. On second thought, perhaps gridiron tangling does come in handy for his current profession.

"I was associated with Alan Jay Lerner and Frederick Loewe, the producers-creators of 'Brigadoon,' from the time they did 'My Fair Lady.' The movie rights were owned by MGM, of course. I knew it could be a great television show, if it could be cleared for telecasting."

And so Rosemont toiled for seven long years to bring the musical to home screens.

The show ran for two years on Broadway and up until last year had stacked up these interesting records:

It has earned more money for Lerner and Loewe in the field of amateur productions than any other show in the history of show business.

More vocal scores have been sold of "Brigadoon" than any other show.

Its hit song "Almost Like Being In Love," at the height of its popularity was on the most-played performance list for more consecutive weeks than any other hit from a Broadway musical—more than 52 weeks.

More school drama and music departments have played and sung "Brigadoon" music than any other musical production.

There have been 230 published versions of the score.

There have been 750 recordings of the score, of which 250 are "Almost Like Being In Love."

What more do you need to get a hit play on television? Plenty more.

First of all, Rosemont needed a cast of star names. At the outset he had Robert Goulet, who viewed the assignment with more than a bit of poignancy.

Recalls the deep-blue-eyed singing star, "The first show I ever did was 'Brigadoon.' I was in the chorus in Toronto. It was nice to revisit the property, in a somewhat more important part," he jokes.

Then came Fielder Cook, one of the most-talented producer-directors, and musical conductor Irwin Kostal. Ernest Kinoy, also of the so-called "golden days" of television writing, updated the story by changing the two men who wander into the mythical town of "Brigadoon" to professional race car drivers. (Purists may howl at this bit, but younger viewers will gear right with the idea.)

"Never got to drive the car," said Goulet with chagrin. "Good-looking Morgan. They tell me it goes fast. I had to take their word for it."

The scene then shifted to New York, where both Rosemont and Cook were at the Plaza Hotel. At different times in the same afternoon they ran into Peter Falk, each exclaiming in practically identical words: "I want to talk to you."

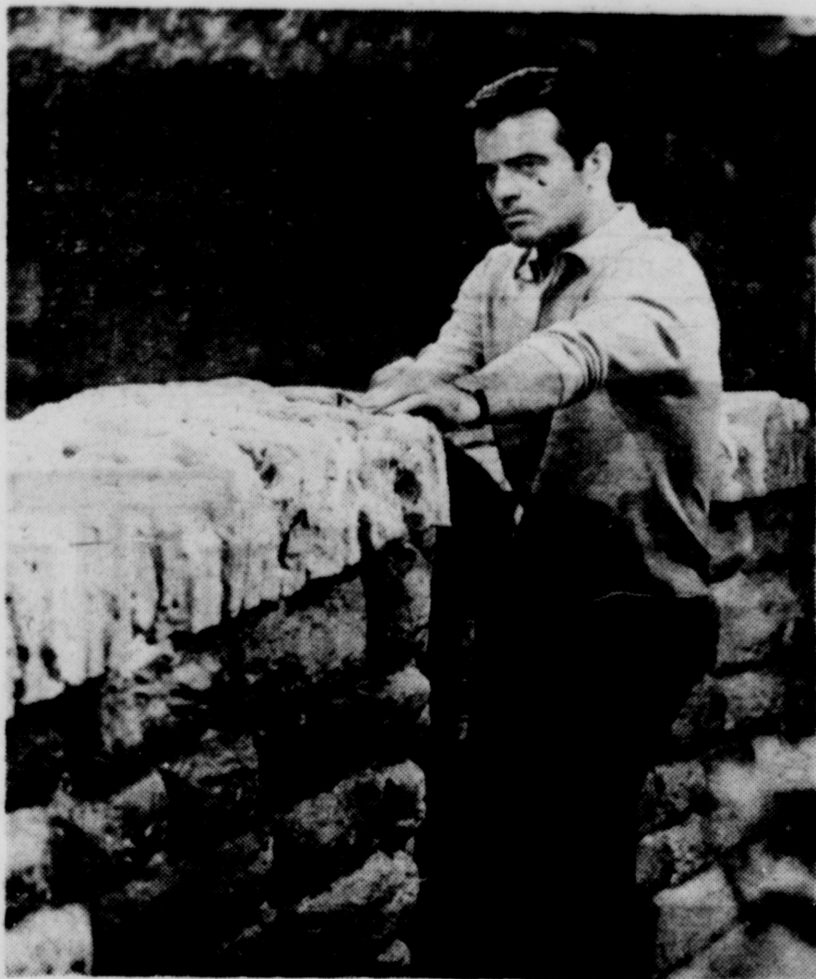

This was shortly after Falk's "Trials of O'Brien" show had been canceled and he was quite available. He signed to play the part of Goulet's pal, Jeff, on their haunting trip through the Scottish Highlands.

Sally Ann Howes was signed for the part of the girl with whom Goulet falls in love, and Marlyn Mason is the ramping, romancing girl that Falk encounters.

All they needed then was a sponsor. And that was almost easy. Goulet's series, Blue Light, had been sponsored by Armstrong Cork Company. It was a happy association, although the show wasn't a smash. The same company bought the full sponsorship to "Brigadoon" and just as in a chess game when all the pieces fall into place properly, MGM then agreed to take the movie off the market so "Brigadoon" could be seen in its new 90-minute color version.

And that, dear reader, is why Rosemont says his show is an event. Who would discount that claim after all this?

The show was taped in Holy-wood last summer. The Scottish Highlands scenes were shot on a typically southern California steamy day at Malibu where, coincidentally, a portion of the mountains resemble those of Scotland.

Interiors were shot on vast studio stages. And of course there was the airlines strike to complicate matters. It was touch-and-go for a few days whether 88-year-old Finlay Currie would make it from his home in London to play Mr. Lundie, the venerable sage of "Brigadoon."

He did, and took off immediately for Spain where he played Merlin in "Camelot," another show which has considerable nostalgia for Robert Goulet.

"I couldn't visit my barber before I left England," said Currie. "I needed long hair for this part of Mr. Lundie and also for 'Camelot.' I feel like the oldest Beatle in the world. It takes two months to grow out and it tickles the back of my neck. I marvel at these youngsters who actually elect to look like this. Possibly not as sensitive at the backs of their necks," he contemplated.

There's a lot of good, old showbiz drama behind-the-scenes in "Brigadoon."

Rosemont needed a young tenor for the part of the bridegroom Charlie Dalrymple. "There aren't any young tenors any more," he mourned. And continued seeking.

A friend showed him a kinescope of the Talent Scouts show. And he found his tenor. Only thing was, the Army had found him earlier. U.S. Army private Tommy Carlyle was given leave of absence from Ft. Monmouth, N.J., to come to Hollywood to rehearse and tape the special — and then returned at once to the barracks.

Then there was the almost-misadventure of Edward Villella, one of America's noted ballet stars. He was cast in the part of Harry Beaton, the villain of the piece. And just like in those old showbiz movies, in the dress rehearsal Villella's dance went just fine. Until the end, when he hit his leg most painfully.

But the show did, indeed, go on. He was able to do the dance for the taping cameras. Fortunately, no retakes were needed.

Peter Falk, a highly articulate young man, was almost relaxed when he arrived in Hollywood. It was his first musical, but as he put it:

"There's no difference between this and drama. The problems and goals are the same—to be real without being dull, or to be theatrical without being fake. An actor's problems are always the same: the fear of being unbelievable or a bore, whether it's musical comedy or Shakespeare, a skit or a realistic Italian movie."

"I liked this part. I even got to sing. I had two lines: 'You take the high road and I'll take the low road.' It took only 180 takes for me to get it right and it cost $33,000, but Norman assures me it was worth it."

He was kidding, of course, about the cost, but he did it with a straight face. However, he doesn't plan a musical career.

This writer, who had an advance preview of "Brigadoon," can report it is indeed an event.

If your prone to "puddle up" when watching television, keep the hankies handy. You may need them. And if you like musicals on television, rejoice in "Brigadoon." It may just open the door to more like it.

Martin Landau Has 20 Roles

HOLLYWOOD—It will be impossible to miss Martin Landau on CBS-TV's Mission: Impossible.

In nine of the first 13 shows he plays 20 different roles.

In the first show alone he played four different characters.

"My agent," Martin grinned, "was all for getting multiple billing but the show's producer told him 'It would take 20 minutes of screen time.'"

Martin is happy enough with his recurring guest star billing on the series which CBS describes as "globe-girdling undercover work led by Steven Hill as the boss of the Impossible Mission Force."

The crew of I.M.F. experts out to top The Man From U.N.C.L.E. range from sultry Barbara Bain to master of disguise, escape artist and magician Martin Landau as the show's "Rollin' Hand."

Actually, it will be impossible to miss either Mr. and Mrs. Landau on Mission: Impossible. Mrs. Landau, you see, is Barbara Bain.

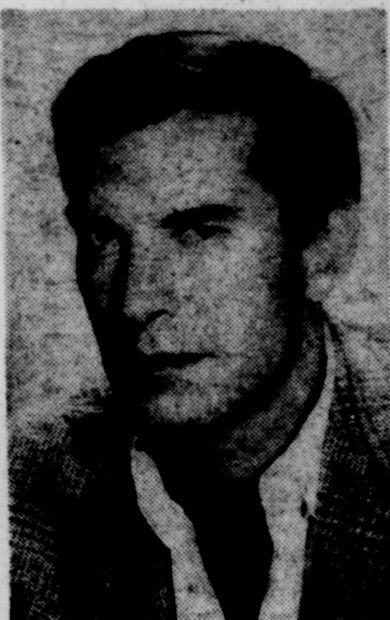

"It's a great situation," says Martin, whose Hollywood career dates back to the marvelous heavy he played in Alfred Hitchcock's movie, "North by Northwest." "I have a non-exclusive contract. I can do NBC or ABC shows while doing this CBS series and also have time off to accept a movie role."

He's also highly enthused about the show's prospect of becoming a hit. He says "In 10 years of TV acting I can remember only five great scripts. Of the nine shows we've done for this series, I can honestly say that eight of them are great."

The range of characters he will be playing as a master of disguise was reflected in the first show.

For this he was seen as himself in the role of "Rollin' Hand," as a bald South American dictator, as an impersonator of the dictator and as an 80-year-old man.

If you saw the movie "Cleopatra" you will remember Martin as General Rufio, Antony's best friend. He remembers the movie, too, but with mixed emotions. "The first cut ran seven and a half hours. When it was trimmed to four hours, six of my best scenes landed on the cutting room floor."

But he's grateful to the movie for the year he spent on salary and with expenses paid in Rome. Also for the laughs.

His favorite story about the film's wild expenses is the company's bill for bottled water. At 20 cents a bottle for cast and crew of 100 it added up to $80,000.

"One day Richard Burton and I figured it out," he laughs, "and the bill of $80,000 meant that each person would have had to drink something like four gallons a day."

Minus $80,000 Lucky Break

HOLLYWOOD — Imagine losing $80,000 and calling it lucky!

"I know, it sounds crazy," says Robert Colbert, the ex-Warner Bros. actor who is co-starred this fall in the ABC-TV series Time Tunnel, "but it turned out to be the luckiest thing that ever happened to me."

He lost the $80,000 by investing in a Hollywood restaurant that went broke.

"I had been trying to get out of my Warner contract with no success. Then I started losing money in the restaurant. After the restaurant went into bankruptcy the creditors were threatening to attach my salary."

"So I pleaded with the studio, 'please fire me. If I'm not working the creditors will settle for 25 cents on the dollar.' Well, the studio did feel sorry and fired me and the creditors then settled for 25 cents on the dollar."

"I still lost $80,000 but within six weeks I had a new contract at Revue that paid me twice what I was making at Warner Bros."

A graduate of the Portland, Ore., Repertory Theater, Colbert spent five years appearing in nearly every Warner TV series when Colt. 45, Sugarfoot, Cheyenne, Hawaiian Eye, 77 Sunset Strip and Bourbon Street Beat led the audience ratings.

He also appeared in two Warner movies, "Claudelle Inglish" and "A Fever in the Blood."

A fever in the blood—a high one — was what Colbert had when James Garner walked away from the highly successful Maverick series and Warner Bros. decided Colbert would make a great replacement.

"I realized that no one could replace Garner and I fought against it. But I lost. They forced me to do two shows. Instead of Brett Maverick they named me Brent Maverick. I was ridiculous and I told them so. I said, 'Dress me in girl's clothes and call me Brenda Maverick and then we'll really have something.' They didn't get the point. But after two shows they realized their mistake. Jack Kelly went on to finish the season and that was the end of the series. All the humor was gone. In one show I did we killed off 16 people. The show wasn't Maverick at all."

Robert Colbert's sense of humor is the reason he became an actor, he says. Until 1965 "I laughed my way in and out of a dozen jobs." They included oil driller, ditch digger, bulldozer driver, furniture mover, disc jockey and kitchen appliance salesman.

Living High On Nonsense

NEW YORK — There aren't very many starlets who live like Mary Grace, the velvety blonde 21-year-old who plays Mlor, the cavegirl on CBS-TV's It's About Time.

Her cliff dwelling during a recent visit here was the former residence of the late President Herbert Hoover, high in the Waldorf Towers. And Mary, in a simple black sheath with not-so-simple white pearls, was very comfortable in the spacious surroundings.

"Mr. Hilton is always so good to me when I come to the city," she said, gently indicating that members of her family of the Grace Steamship Company of New Orleans were pals with Conrad. "I love this suite. So does Dean Rusk."

Then, lighting a cigarette, she made a confession.

"My family was a little nervous about me acting, but they are getting used to it now. At first they couldn't understand why I didn't want to spend all my life in New Orleans and just keep on seeing the same old people day after day," she said.

Not interested in marrying the "same old people" (Mary said she has dated since she was 9 and now is just "tired of going out all the time"), she moved to California for a more independent life.

It took her a year of daily speech training to get rid of her southern accent. Then she landed a role on the ABC-TV soap opera, Never Too Young, playing Patricia Wymore's daughter.

"The only thing I had to do was cry a lot," said Mary.

MARY GRACE

When the serial went off the air last spring, she packed her luggage and headed for the French Riviera. "It was there she got the call to come back and be Mlor."

"I was so used to wearing bikinis all summer, I wasn't a bit embarrassed about wearing the abbreviated cavewoman costume," said Mary.

Determined to become a better actress, she is a member of Theater West, a Hollywood acting group which is somewhat the equivalent of the Actor's Studio in New York.

"I'm not a method actress, but I think like one," she said. "But most of all I guess I want to prove to my parents, I'm really serious about the theater. At the moment they still call it 'that nonsense'."

TV Scout Reports

Barry Sullivan, an outspoken gentleman presently starring in NBC-TV's The Road West, has some sharp observations to make about TV producers. He feels there is a shortage of them, adding, "At least 50 per cent of the producers come in with the feeling that they're doing a job for a salary, and the producer isn't interested in fighting for series quality. Many become producers because they are shrewd promoter manipulators or salesmen who put a package together and then don't know what to do with it. We need men who will resist the machine, who have involvement, are thoughtful, who won't be intimidated."

Allen Ludden, who tours summer stock with his wife Betty White, chooses their stage vehicles carefully. "We go out to make friends," he says. "It means a great deal to us to meet the people who write us and say 'hello' as if they really were our friends. It's a good feeling."

Danny Kaye has more energy than a nuclear reactor.

Here's how two days went for him recently: He arrived in Philadelphia at 6:30 a. m. on Sunday to see the baseball season's final double-header between the Dodgers and Phillies. That night he came to New York and appeared on What's My Line. Then he headed for the Gold Coin Restaurant to look over the kitchen and make preparations for a meal he was cooking there the next evening.

On Monday he flew to Toronto, where he held a noon press conference about a Toronto symphony concert he will conduct in November, then flew back to New York, arriving at 5 p. m. He headed for the restaurant and prepared a 12-course Chinese dinner for 200 members of the press. He left the kitchen around 10:30, and began visiting with the diners. He was still there when at least one diner named TV SCOUT, exhausted from eating for more than three hours, left.

Phyllis Diller claims she had the most important role in the recent Chrysler Hope TV special which reunited her with 15 of his leading ladies: beauties like Dina Merrill, Rhonda Fleming, Lucille Ball, Joan Collins, Virginia Mayo, Joan Fontaine, Arlene Dahl, et al. Phyllis says she was important because "I came on to give all the male viewers a chance to unpop their eyes."

Straight Role

Reports from Hollywood say that Michael Ansara was very disappointed when he saw a screening of The Girl From U.N.C.L.E. episode in which he appears. Seems he played the role straight, because he wasn't told otherwise. All the time other cast members were being quite broad about their dialogue.

"Of course I watch Lawrence Welk on TV! That bubble machine is my brother!"

Meet Don Kirshner

The Man Made Monkees Sing

By BILL BYERS

NEW YORK — Don Kirshner, aging boy millionaire and president of both Colgem Records and Screen Gems' recording division, was wondering what to do about Kim Novak.

Would she and the Monkees get along?

The platinum-haired actress in a poetic mood has dashed off 12 sets of lyrics, hoping Kirshner, 32-year-old, easy-going czar of the pop music business, would consider them.

Unfortunately, none of Miss Novak's songs was suitable for the Monkees, stars of Screen Gems hit NBC-TV series. And it was doubtful if any of them was salable.

Kirshner has built a fantastic reputation at picking lyrics which will sell in today's frantic pop music market. Since 1959, he has published 500 songs, of which 400 have made the hit charts, including the Monkees' current "Last Train to Clarks-ville."

Besides supervising the music for the quartet's series, Kirshner is also responsible for selecting the music that goes on all other Screen Gems shows—I Dream of Jeannie, Love on a Rooftop, Hawk, Bewitched, The Iron Horse and Occasional Wife.

But Kirshner is the most proud of what he has done with the Monkees.

After the quartet (David Jones, Micky Dolenz, Peter Tork and Mike Nesmith) had been selected from 450 hopeful Monkees, he signed them to a long-term Colgem contract before he had even seen them. Since the quartet had never worked together before, it was vitally important to find them the "right kind of sound."

"I knew what the series was going to be like—fresh, original, zany yet sincere—and I wanted the boys' voices to fit," said Kirshner. "We worked with them day and night until we got the right blend. We didn't want anyone to stand out."

Also important was finding the right songs. And Kirshner knew just where to look. Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart, young men in their 20s, were selected to write the Monkees' tunes and it was no surprise to the stocky, pleasant-faced president that the songs were just right.

"I knew the moment I heard them that they would do. I was also sure that they would make the series the hit that it is," said Kirshner, who claims he can't even hum a tune.

He picks his songs by "instinct."

"I do it all by feel," he says. "Somehow you just know what will work and what won't. All I ever look for is a story and sincerity. There is no such thing as rock 'n' roll. We'd prefer to call it music with a beat."

As for Miss Novak, Kirshner has encouraged her to write some more.

Who knows? Maybe some day the Monkees will be singing her songs, too.

Both are American secret agents. Culp as Kelly Robinson masquerades as a top-seeded tennis player and Cosby as Alexander Scott plays his trainer-companion. The two, however, never seem to have time to play the game.

QUESTIONABLE TITLE—Why do they call Milton Berle "Mr. Television?" I never heard of him until this season.—Joe L., Wichita, Kan.

Fifteen years ago, Berle had the Number 1 variety show on TV and was given the title by several critics. He hopes his new ABC-TV venture will help him retain it.

OLD TIMERS—What nighttime television series has been on the air the longest?—Ricky Dobson, Hollywood, Calif.

Grandpa of them all is The Ed Sullivan Show, now in its 19th season. Other veterans, and their ages, are: What's My Line? (16); Red Skelton (13); Lassie (12); Gunsmoke (11); Lawrence Welk (11) and Bonanza (7). The Bell Telephone Hour, Candid Camera and My Three Sons have all been on six years.

WRONG MAN—I think Steve McQueen played Johnny Yuma on the series, The Rebel. Am I right?—Mrs. Kathleen Rhoades, St. Paul, Minn.

Nope. Nick Adams did. McQueen was Josh Randall on Wanted: Dead or Alive.

DRUM BEATER—Has Johnny Weissmuller ever played Jungle Jim on television? Mike McDonald, Abilene, Tex.

Yes. He was also Tarzan in the movies of the 1930s and 40s.

BOOTIE DAUGHTER—How old is Nancy Sinatra? Is she married?—David Tipper, York, Pa.

Nancy, the oldest of Frank's three children, is 26. She was married to Tommy Sands. The couple is now divorced.

Cabot Supreme

It will come as no surprise to readers who have seen him that Sebastian Cabot, of Family Affair on CBS-TV, loves to eat. (He worked as a chef in London for two years as a youngster.) Recently he judged a contest for avocado recipes and was so inspired he went home and concocted what he calls "Cabot Supreme."

He has given TV Scout the recipe: Make one crepe suzette for each serving. Make guacamole (mash avocado with a fork and mix with finely-chopped onion, tabasco and salt and pepper to taste.) Add thin slices of Scottish or Nova Scotia smoked salmon. Roll the guacamole with salmon into the crepes. Make a cream sauce with sharp grated cheese added. Cover the crepes with the sauce, put under a broiler and serve when the dish is bubbly hot. Cabot, a fancy cook, likes to decorate the finished product with guacamole squeezed through a pastry bag.

Dirksen to Appear On Channel 5

Senator Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) Minority Leader of the U. S. Senate and one of the most colorful and respected members of his party and of all Congress, will be interviewed on WNEW-TV (Channel 5) in two successive programs of the "Opinion In The Capital" series, 8:30-9:00 p. m., Sunday, October 9 and 16.

Mark Evans, Vice President for Public Affairs, Metromedia, Inc., will talk with Senator Dirksen on his personal and political philosophies, his unique relationship with President Johnson as the leader of a rival party, his long and notable career in public life, and various topical political subjects.

Ridiculous Behavior

It may be that television has reached the height of ridiculous behavior (or should it be the 'lowth?') with its pre-testing of shows.

Much publicity has been given to the practice of inviting people to watch shows before they are on the air. During the screening, the audience presses buttons so their reactions are recorded. One man, TV Scout hears, kept pressing the "lousy" button. After 10 minutes someone from the production staff rushed to the offending seat only to discover the man had fallen asleep with the button pressed down on the negative reaction.

Help Wanted

Gary Marshall and Jerry Belson, who produce Hey Landlord, the new NBC-TV series which stars Will Hutchins and Sandy Baron, are looking for out-of-towners to attend the taping of the show, performed before a live audience.

"If something strikes a Des Moinesian funny in our studio audience," Marshall says, "it ought to strike fellow Des Moinesians funny back home."

"A Fort Lauderdale might laugh at something entirely different Belson adds. "And the two of them might not laugh at all at something the Hollywood crowd finds particularly uproarious. What good is it if we're a smash live at the studio, and end up sailing over or under the heads of our viewers elsewhere?"

A LOVELY JAPANESE lass, Mie Hama, carries a lead role opposite Sean Connery (James Bond) in the new movie, "You Only Live Twice," now shooting in Japan. Mie adds just the right touch to Agent 007's derring-do.

Hurry Milty

At a luncheon for Milton Berle, Jack E. Leonard was the "roastmaster." When Berle took time making a point, Leonard interrupted, "Hurry up, Milton. I've got to do another luncheon—for your TV replacement."

HONORARY Chairman for Radio-Television for this year's National Bible Week observances is Art Linkletter. "The Bible—Book of Wisdom and Truth" is the theme for the Oct. 17-23 observances.

Display No Panic As Bonanza Takes Second in Polling

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There was no panic at Ponderosa two weeks ago when "Bonanza" failed to beat an opposing program for the first time in six years.

After all, the program was the three-hour "Bridge on the River Kwai," which cost Ford $1,880,000 to present. The "Bonanza" bunch figured correctly that the Sunday night audience would return to the Chevrolet corral, since no sponsor could afford such a stipend on a regular basis.

In Winning Ways

"Bonanza" continued its winning ways last Sunday with a two-partner concerning Mormon polygamy. "The Pursued." The second half appears Sunday, it stars Dina Merrill and Eric Fleming, who was drowned last week on a Peruvian film location.

Two-partners — which are released overseas as movies — and occasional "name" guest stars are the only departures from the customary format of "Bonanza." The man who dictates these conditions is David Dortort, who created the series and has guided it as producer since its start.

His view of the show's success: "Bonanza" is more than a Western. It has a far greater range of story than other Westerns, yet it has enough of the elements to appeal to the Western buff."

Leads Appealing

But the compelling reason for continuing supremacy of "Bonanza" in the audience polls, Dortort admitted, is the surefire appeal of the leads: Lorne Greene, Dan Blocker and Michael Landon.

"The combination of actors is unique and successful," said the producer. "Each developed as a separate personality — Lorne as the father figure; Dan as the hearty, solid older brother; Mike as the impetuous younger brother. The boys do a solid job. Each knows his own character and its limitations, and they won't let writers or directors go too far afield."

Blank Answer

Morey Amsterdam says he has turned down 15 pilots since production stopped on The Dick Van Dyke Show. "The idea for the pilot is usually great," Morey says. "But when I ask, 'Then where do we go?' the producer usually doesn't know."

William Ellery Channing, founder of the Unitarian denomination, graduated from Harvard in 1798.

CHANNEL CHATTER

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the time of the year when a number of the broadcasting industry's publications send television writers lists of the new network series with requests that they tag their opinion of each as good, bad or indifferent. Later, these reports are bro-

TV Scout Reports

Bill Crosby has plans for a special in which he would have Nancy Wilson (his recent co-star on I Spy) as his sole guest. Only the two of them will be on camera, if Bill's plans work out.

Andy Williams Show that was shown recently with Vic Damone, Juliet Prowse and Dick Shawn as guests, the prop man had difficulty setting up the platform where Andy does "The Informal Spot." After a 25-minute wait, the audience began to get restless. So Dick Shawn ad libbed some jokes and songs. When everything was set to go, Dick yelled at Andy, "I've warned the audience up. They are all ready now and will laugh all through your songs."

Don Adams is obviously delighted with the scripts being turned out for Get Smart's second year. "The other day we had a script so funny, I broke up doing it," Don told TV Scout. "We had to do a scene 15 times because the other actor and I couldn't stop laughing."

When Werner Klemperer was nominated for an Emmy for his performance as Col. Klink on CBS-TV's Hogan's Heroes, his son Mark told him he wouldn't win because Frank Gorshin was a nominee in the same category. "Then he stuck the knife in a little deeper," Klemperer said. "He asked me to get Gorshin's autograph for him." TV historians will recall that Mark was right about his father, but wrong about Gorshin. Don Knotts won.

Heads Movie Engineers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carlton Hunt of New York has been elected president of the Society of Motion Picture and Television Engineers.

MONUMENTAL backdrop for Annick Loisel is a landmark of her new domain. The new "Miss Ile de France," who will represent the district surrounding Paris in December's "Miss France" contest, uses the Eiffel Tower as a prop for a campaign photo.

ken up, added up, combined into assorted stories, most of which prove (a) that the critics think it's a pretty poor season and (b) critics' judgments are often contradictory and usually do not agree with popular judgments.

This reviewer, having worked down the list of 34 new shows, found it impossible to label more than a few shows as just plain "bad."

More Disappointing Than Bad

True, there was "The Tammy Grimes Show," quickly removed, and "The Green Hornet," and "It's About Time," all of which would be at the bottom of my list. However, it should be noted that "It's About Time" has recently been renewed for a second 13 weeks by its network.

More new shows were disappointing than bad — "The Jean Arthur Show" with its wretched silly scripts; "The Garry Moore Show" and "The Milton Berle Show" with their tired formats; "Run, Buddy, Run" and "The Hero," which quickly became tiresome spoofs.

All the new westerns — "The Monroes," "The Road West," "Shane" and "Iron Horse" — are professionally produced, handsome and thoroughly predictable variations of one of television standard themes.

Shows like "Star Trek" and "Time Tunnel," in the science-fiction mold are dazzling to watch, full of action — if that sort of thing is to your taste.

There are a number of situation comedies a cut above average — "Occasional Wife," "Family Affair," "Love on a Rooftop" and "That Girl" among them. All are nice, pleasant, slick — but it is still hard to label any of them as "good," but "indifferent" is not right either.

Tough to Pin Down

"Stage 67," the only new anthology series is impossible to label at all since it consists of a collection of unrelated shows.

Shows like "The Rounders" and "The Pruitts of Southampton" are impossible to pin down, too, since some viewers will find them vastly amusing while others find them crashing bores.

The new season, then, is one that is full of expertise, theatrical values and yet, something seems to be lacking — excitement. Early audience samples indicated that audiences were ignoring many of the new and returning to old favorites. Reviewers — and viewers with whom this writer has been in contact — find many of the shows tedious and boring.

The trade paper Variety estimates that some two-thirds of the 34 new series have already showed signs of ratings troubles. When the next Nielsen report is available next Monday, all networks will use it as an unusually early base for ordering up emergency replacements.
